FOREWORD

Tradition, which is literally "the oral transmission of information, beliefs, customs, activities, attitudes, and cultures from generation to generation," has established many of the aspects of life at Classical High School, and for this reason we have chosen tradition as the theme of the 1964 edition of the Blue and White.

Our school abounds in traditional honors, traditional activities and organizations, and traditional services to the community, all fostered by students with inquiring, intelligent minds.

The awarding of honors to deserving students has long been a practice at Classical. There are academic honors such as the granting of membership in the National Honor Society and the awarding of scholarships for superior scholastic achievement. Also, there are honors for creative achievement such as the inscription of a debater's name on the Senate Tablet for excellence in debating, and the giving of the Poetry Award for excellence in writing poetry. For skill in various sports such as football, which has been played at Classical since 1893, traditional trophies and medals are awarded to students.

Another traditional custom at Classical is the functioning of several student clubs and organizations. There is Student Government which was formed in 1921 to unite each class and promote school spirit. There is the International Relations Club which has existed since 1932 and which strives to concern students with the need for peaceful relations among the nations of the world. In addition, there is the school newspaper, the Recorder which has been published by the students since 1887, and the yearbook, the Blue and White, which was first published by a school fraternity in 1896.

Equally traditional are the services performed for the community of Springfield and elsewhere by the students of Classical; for example, our students contributed (along with the students in the rest of the schools in the city) the funds needed to pay for the lighting of the Campanile, Springfield's municipal tower which is pictured on our cover. Classical students have also participated actively in the Junior Red Cross since 1948, thereby helping disaster victims, disabled people, and hospitalized people.

Students with inquiring, intelligent minds have always been a part of Classical. Indeed, they resemble in a small way Deacon Samuel Chapin who played a large role in the founding of the city of Springfield, and whose memorial statue is pictured on our first sectional divider page. Some of these students have shown a deep interest in the culture of their city as evidenced in one way by their many trips to the city's fine museums. A group of students is pictured visiting the William Pynchon Memorial Building on the student divider page and the George Walter Vincent Smith Art Museum on the activities divider page of our yearbook.

Our school is extremely rich in tradition as we will demonstrate throughout this yearbook. Moreover, in this record of our school year, we will strive to prophesy the contributions that the present students at Classical High School, who have been enriched by the tradition of the past, will make to the cultural advancement of future generations.

MRS. ERIKA CORBIN

Last April the student body and faculty of Classical High School were deeply saddened at the death of Mrs. Erika Corbin, who had taught French and German at Classical for sixteen years. Mrs. Corbin was a graduate of Smith College and Middlebury College. She had taught at schools in South Hadley and Agawam, as well as at MacDuffie's School for Girls and at the Central Street School in Springfield. She brought to her classes a wealth of knowledge both from her excellent education and from the varied and interesting experiences of her life. Mrs. Corbin helped her students delve into the literature and culture of France and Germany. She also stimulated interest in the diverse cultures of the world by her work with the International Relations Club. Everyone who had Mrs. Corbin as a teacher and knew her as a friend will long remember her ability and dedication.

II

Ich liess die Ture offen.
Langsam ging ich die Stufen.
Ich dachte: vielleicht, dass du riefest—

Ach, das ist Regen
Auf meinem Gesicht.
Ich bin von dir gegangen.
Du fuhltest es nicht.

Du bist gegangen—ach—
Und ich hatte so viel noch zu fragen.
Du hattest Antwort—ach—
Und hast sie von hinnen getragen.

Nun sitze ich, arm, allein,
Mit meiner dunkelen Seele,
Und wandle zu Klang den Stein
Und hauche mein Herz durch die Kehle.

Administration

DEACON SAMUEL CHAPIN

The statue of Deacon Samuel Chapin was unveiled in Springfield, Massachusetts on November 24, 1887. The statue itself, sculptured by Augustus Saint-Gaudens, depicts the aggressiveness and unbending strength of the Puritan of earlier New England, come to conquer the new world. It was Saint-Gaudens' purpose in making this statue to personify the fundamental principles of integrity and piety on which the ancient commonwealths of New England were established. During the years that Samuel Chapin held public office in Springfield, he discharged his duties with a strong will and a firm belief in the maintenance of religion and good order that has left an indelible impression of his character and life on this city. Like the Deacon in spirit, the administration of Classical High School has endeavored to foster high ideals of character, honor, and scholarship in the students.

Our efficient administrators cooperate to uphold

MR. RAYMOND MONTAGNA, PRINCIPAL 1961-

Each year during National Education Week it is a tradition to have Dr. William C. Hill, former principal of Classical come back to speak at an assembly. Dr. Hill, (left), principal of Classical for thirty-five years, congratulates Mr. Raymond Montagna (right) on the way the traditions of character, scholarship, and honor in "the best school in the solar system" have been preserved. Mr. Montagna, our principal for the last three years, has tried to administrate in the spirit which has made Classical the fine institution that it is today.

the traditionally high standards of Classical.

MR. RUSSELL PETERSON

Mr. Peterson, who earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees at Springfield College, has served as the assistant principal of Classical for one year. During this time, he has shown himself to be a welcome addition to Classical's administration. Mr. Peterson, who is one of the first to arrive in the morning, is usually one of the last to leave in the afternoon due to his busy schedule.

Some of his duties are making necessary changes in students' programs, organizing and supervising eye and ear tests given to all students every year, and running the detention hall. An adviser to Classical's P.T.S.A.,

Mr. Peterson also coordinates the drive for P.T.S.A. membership. In addition, he supervises conduct in the lunchroom during lunch period.

Always friendly and helpful to the students at Classical, Mr. Peterson says, "I am continually impressed with the meaningful self-direction of our students."

Mr. Peterson has certainly worked hard, in cooperation with Mr. Montagna, to uphold Classical's tradition of fine leadership which was established in part by educators like Dr. Hill, our former principal.

Capable counselors assist students in upholding

Mr. Comeau, who graduated from Boston University, Fitchburg State Teacher's College, and has also studied at Springfield College, bridges the gap between junior and senior high school in welcoming many a poor, confused freshman by helping him with program difficulties and in otherwise assisting him to orient himself. It is in the freshman year that the testing program, organized by the counselors, begins. With the test results at hand, the counselors offer advice to the student in his selection of realistic career plans.

Mr. Comeau discusses with Linda O'Connell her plans for the future.

Mrs. Ramos is a graduate of Bates College with a B.A. and M.Ed. and has studied at the University of Connecticut, the University of Massachusetts, Columbia University, and Springfield College. She is kept busy preparing recommendations for seniors, helping seniors fill out college applications, and helping with college conferences.

Looking over a map with colleges located on it, Mrs. Ramos watches Phyllis Judson "pinning her hopes on Swarthmore."

the tradition of fine scholarship.

Miss Corcoran's door is always open to students like Judy Maher who is seeking information about colleges. Miss Corcoran, a graduate of Westfield State College and Springfield College, plays an important role in organizing and carrying out these conferences.

Mrs. Burns, the school nurse, services both Classical Junior and Senior High Schools. She is a graduate of the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing. All those who have availed themselves of her attention are truly grateful. Here, Mrs. Burns is devoting some of her skill to Birgitte Madsen.

Mr. Shea, a graduate of the University of Massachusetts, Westfield State Teachers College, and Springfield College, is teaching a class how to get the most out of reading the newspaper. This course helps special students in occupational guidance and prepares them for jobs after their graduation from high school.

Competent secretaries function behind the scenes.

Secretaries Mrs. Katherine Garvey (left) and Mrs. Barbara Cowan (right) are busy throughout the year seeing to it that students' transcripts are sent to colleges, teachers supplies are delivered, reports to the Central office are prepared and other routine matters are dispatched.

Mrs. Lillian Topodas, the new secretary in the counseling office, is making out photostatic copies of senior transcripts to be sent to the colleges. Mrs. Topodas is especially interested in colleges because she has a son, Jonathan, a senior at Classical and a daughter Kathy at the University of North Carolina.

Students like Roselyn Warner find secretaries Mrs. Mary Sheehan and Mrs. Mary Triggs helpful advisers when they are seeking information about passes, bus tickets, home assignments, dismissals, telephone messages and other perplexing problems.

The royal road to learning is the library.

Miss Brown is very helpful in showing many students like Carol Michaels how to use reference materials in the library.

Miss Brown received her A.B. and M.A. from Mount Holyoke and later went on to receive a degree in literary science at Syracuse University. Outside of school she enjoys reading and sewing in church organizations.

Alan Barr, Millie Schmidt, Karolyn Ruhf, Linda Littman, Gary MacDonald, and Maryann Jennings comprise the publicity committee which sets up for Miss Brown displays on bulletin boards in the library. This year is the first time in Classical that a committee of this type has been formed. It takes care of all the signs, printing, and bulletin boards which add to the attractive appearance of the library. In April, the committee set up a special display to commemorate the four-hundred year Shakespearean anniversary.

"Literature is the art of writing

Seated around the table at an English department meeting are Mr. Francis Girr, Mr. Henry Black, Miss Christine Sauer, Mr. Richard Pervonga, Mr. Joseph Courtney, Miss Ruth Dickerman, Miss Virginia Mills, Mr. Lewis Tenczar, Mrs. Mabel Morrill, Mr. Bernard Donnelly and Miss Almada King.

Brief biographs of our English teachers, whose task it is to foster an appreciation of literature and to develop skills in reading, writing, and speaking, indicate a wide variety in interests and professional preparation.

MR. FRANCIS GIRR, who enjoys "collecting and repairing old junk," is famed for his Girr Gallery, a cultural stimulus to young artists at Classical. Custodian of the books in the English department, he holds an A.B. from the University of Rhode Island and a M.A. from the University of Connecticut.

As adviser to the Recorder, MR. HENRY BLACK guides his staff through frantic sessions before deadlines. He received a B.S. and an A.M. from Boston University and an Ed.M. from the State College at Boston. Mr. Black also studied at the City College of New York, Drake University, and the University of Chicago.

MISS CHRISTINE SAUER, a graduate of Classical, received her B.S. and M.A. from Columbia University. When she takes time out from her busy schedule as teacher, Senior Class adviser and adviser to Pierides, Miss Sauer enjoys reading, traveling, and crafts.

A newcomer to Classical, MR. RICHARD PERVONGA, helped with the Carousel production this year. Recipient of a B.A. from American International College and a M.A. from Boston University, Mr. Pervonga also studied at Indiana University.

MR. JOSEPH COURTNEY, another teacher new to Classical this year, is an adviser to the Junior Class and the Senate. He received his A.B. and M.A. from Boston College.

After receiving her B.A. from Mount Holyoke College and her M.Ed. from Springfield College, MISS RUTH DICKERMAN studied at Cornell University. Besides being chairman of the English department, she is adviser to the Girls Patrol and a member of the Advisory Board of the William C. Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society.

MISS VIRGINIA MILLS, a member of the Carousel script committee and adviser to the Scribe, studied abroad at the Shakespeare Institute, Stratford-on-Avon, England. Here in the United States she did graduate work at Smith College and Boston University. Miss Mills received an A.B. from Bates College and an M.A. from Trinity College (Connecticut.)

MR. LEWIS TENCZAR's activities at Classical have included the management of the Carousel props and the guidance of the Senate and I.R.C. His educational background includes a B.A. from the University of Massachusetts and a M.Ed. from Our Lady of the Elms College.

As chairman of the Assembly Committee and supervisor of the Handbook and the Reading Center, MRS. MABEL MORRILL has little time for hobbies, but she does enjoy books and the theater. Mrs. Morrill received a B.L.I. from Emerson College and an M.A. from Boston University. She also studied at the University of Vermont.

MR. BERNARD DONNELLY shows his interest in drama by his direction of Carousel and instruction of the dramatics class. He received an A.B. from Brown University and a M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Remembered for her performance at the Student-Faculty Basketball Game, MISS ALMEDA KING'S more serious activities include being a Freshmen Class adviser and a member of the Carousel script committee. She received a B.S. from Bridgewater State College and a M.A.L.S. from Wesleyan University. She also studied at Trinity College (Connecticut.)

Classical's speech therapist, MISS MAUREEN MAHAR, is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College. She also studied at the University of Michigan. Miss Mahar's outside interests include sailing and politics.

something that will be read twice."

At the beginning of each year Miss Brown gives lectures to freshmen English classes on the resources of the library. This introduction to reference materials is valuable to the student not only in all his English classes but also for research papers in other classes. Some students from these English classes are lucky enough to be chosen by Miss Brown as library aides. Here Miss Brown explains the arrangement of reference materials to freshmen aides Elaine Brumer, Roberta Fountain, Jane Ezrin, Roni Posner, Elaine Cavanaugh, Lillian Mann, Margaret Fiorentino, Amy Michelman, Mary Ann Puglia, and Olga Stefanyszyn.

Once students learn how to use the library, they usually spend a great deal of time there before school, after school, and during study periods. In preparing a research paper students must choose a topic, consult the Reader's Guide, collect the books and magazines, read the material, take notes, prepare an outline, write a rough draft, polish the final paper, add footnotes and prepare a bibliography. Students Mark Berezin, Joanne Lussier, Judy Maher, Edward Jotkowitz, Douglas Noyes and Marilyn Rosen are engaged in the preparation of a research paper.

When the paper is finally finished, it has to be typed by the student who employs the typing skills taught by Miss Porter. Miss Dorothy Porter has degrees from Ohio Wesleyan and Indiana University. She is the business manager for the Blue and White. She is also in charge of the script writing for Carousel and prepares the neatly mimeographed programs for many of our school activities. Here she is helping Jean Strain and Ellen Sealander with marginal stops in one of her typing classes.

"He who knows no foreign language

One of the pleasures of learning a language at Classical is the opportunity to use the Language Laboratory. Here it is possible for the student of a foreign language to learn to speak this language more fluently and understand it more easily. Dr. Fredrick, chairman of the language department at Classical, is sitting at the console. From this point she is able to listen in to anyone in the booths enabling her to check on a student's pronunciation. Listening to Dr. Fredrick are Rodger Boe, Esther Ferster, Arline Horowitz and Myra Retchin.

In the booths, the students listen to the tape of the foreign language which they are studying. Each booth has its own set of ear phones and its own microphone. The student, therefore, can listen to the language and practice speaking it by either repeating sentences or answering questions. The Language Laboratory at Classical is helpful to the student in learning a foreign language. Students listening here are Myra Retchin, Rodger Boe, Arline Horowitz, Katherine Robertson and Esther Ferster.

New at Classical this year is the mobile unit of the Language Laboratory. This piece of equipment makes it possible for more students to use the Language Laboratory at the same time. This unit can be transferred from room 116 to 117. It works the same way as the Language Laboratory except that the microphone is attached to the earphones and they in turn are connected to an outlet. Thus, the student can listen to the tape and practice speaking at his own desk. Listening are Daniel Doyle, Thomas Berard, Gary Circosta, and Melissa Bausman. Miss Meunier is at the console.

Classical's fine staff of foreign language teachers are (seated) Miss Teresa Boylan, Miss Irene Rouillard, Dr. Edna Fredrick, Mrs. Martha Cobb, and Miss Irene Meunier; (standing) Miss Elizabeth Dean, Dr. Philip Miller, Mr. Raymond Lussier, Mr. James Fleming, and Miss Harriet Tower.

The eleven teachers in the foreign language department give their students an insight into the attitudes and customs of many people.

DR. EDNA FREDRICK, the chairman of the language department, has an A.B. from Mount Holyoke College and an M.A. and Ph.D. from Bryn Mawr College. She studied abroad at the Sorbonne in the University of Paris, the University of Mexico, and the Centro de Estudios Historicos (Madrid). She also studied at the Middlebury Language School. MISS IRENE MEUNIER received a B.A. and M.E. from the College of Our Lady of the Elms. She studied at Laval University (Quebec) and Assumption College.

A Freshmen Class adviser and adviser to the French Club, MISS IRENE ROUILLARD received a B.A. from Wellesley College and an M.A. from Middlebury College. She studied abroad at the Sorbonne in the University of Paris.

The adviser to the German Club, Miss Harriet Tower studied at the Goethe Institute (Germany) and Colby College. She received a B.A. from Union College.

The traditional aim of the Social Studies Department

Examining books on reserve for the social studies department are Dr. Boyle, Mr. Bresnahan, Mrs. Bowen, and Mr. Young.

The Social Studies Department of Classical High School offers courses in American history, ancient history, problems of democracy, American government and international relations, modern European history and economics. MR. WILLIAM YOUNG is the chairman of the social studies department. Besides teaching American history and ancient history, he is also the varsity baseball coach. He received his A.B. from Syracuse University, his A.M. from the University of Michigan, and has taken courses at Brandeis University, Boston College, R.P.I., and the University of Chicago. Outside of school, Mr. Young is interested in anthropology and archaeology. He thinks of Classical as a "wonderful school!" MRS. BARBARA BOWEN teaches courses in American history and economics, and is adviser to Student Government. She holds degrees from Mount Holyoke and A.I.C. Commenting on Classical she says, "Classical is, to me, the place where an astonishingly large number of people, —students, faculty, and administration alike, —do an honest, hard day's work." Outside of school, Mrs. Bowen's interests include reading, music and sailing. "Classical grows on you," is MR. DANIEL BRESNAHAN'S feeling. He holds degrees from Holy Cross College, Springfield College, and the University of Massachusetts. When he is not working on his doctorate in administration, Mr. Bresnahan is a football scout for two colleges. DR. THOMAS BOYLE holds degrees from Holy Cross College, A.I.C., and the University of Connecticut. Outside of his Classical activities, Dr. Boyle enjoys taking pictures and following Classical's scores in sports. He also bowls with the Classical bowling team. MR. MILTON CORBIN received degrees from Springfield College and from Columbia University Teachers College. He is the adviser to I.R.C. and teaches the problems of democracy classes. His outside interests lie in stamp and coin collecting and gardening. MISS MARY MORRIS teaches both English and history. She has received degrees from Westfield State College and Yale University. She has also taken additional courses at the University of Connecticut. Her outside interests are music, art, and stamp collecting.

is to acquaint the student with the world.

Each year Mr. Young takes his classes in American History to the Museum of Natural History. There students examine the art, jewelry, pottery, tools and weapons of the American Indians. Antonio Di Michele, James Sadler, and Mr. Young inspect a display of the summary of the cultures of American Indian tribes in the United States.

Economics student Joanne Weislo, interviews Ben Trela, proprietor of the Gulf service station in Agawam, as part of an assignment of the problems of the small businessman in the American economy. Questions directed by Joanne and her classmates to about seventy-five drug store owners, repair shop operators, independent cleaners, and barbers were designed to discover whether the men in the real business world would verify the textbook's list of advantages and disadvantages of owning one's own business. They did.

The art department of Classical offers four courses in art.

MRS. HELENA LARAMEE

Mrs. Laramee is a graduate of Classical High School, Massachusetts College of Art, University of Massachusetts, and Springfield College. She has also studied privately with several outstanding painters and silversmiths and has done mural painting with Thurston Munson. Her dedication to art has been evident in the many projects in which she engages and through the success of her art students as they pursue their art careers.

Art I is a general course which meets four periods a week. The course familiarizes the student with the various art media while teaching the fundamentals of line, color, and design. Specifically it deals with lettering, design, posters, drawing, painting, modeling, and color. Art I requires no homework and is a one-half credit course.

Art II, Graphic Arts, a full credit subject, incorporates the learning of Art I. Graphic Arts is that activity by which the student expresses his thoughts and feelings through the use of such processes as drawing, painting, application of symbols, block printing, and book binding. All of this combines lettering, layout, design and color.

Art III, School Publicity and Display, uses Art I and/or Art II as a foundation, and applies that experience to interior and exterior design, stage settings, and display work of the building.

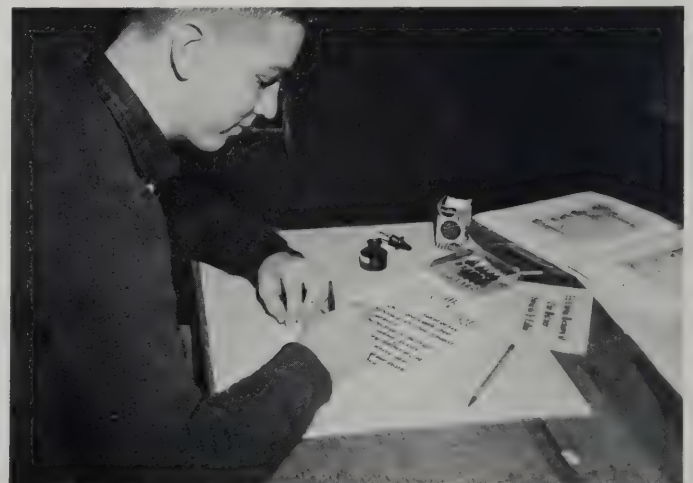

Art IV is primarily concerned with drawing, painting, and sculpture. Out-door sketching combines civic appreciation with learning to draw and paint. When weather does not permit out-door work, figure study from costume models and work in clay is carried on.

From the freshman year on, these art courses prepare for a portfolio of work which would be acceptable for art school admissions. Many of our gifted students plan an art career. A unique contribution to this preparation is work in the history of art. This gives a cultural background which is augmented by an annual field trip to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Mrs. Jack Gardner's Palace in the Fenway, and the Scholastic Art Awards Exhibition at Boston University. For the past five years, Classical students have not only been selected to exhibit in this important regional show, but also have been the recipients of highest regional awards, The Gold Key and The Blue Ribbon. Mrs. Laramee is also adviser for a very active group the Art Club.

Fine music at Classical has become a tradition.

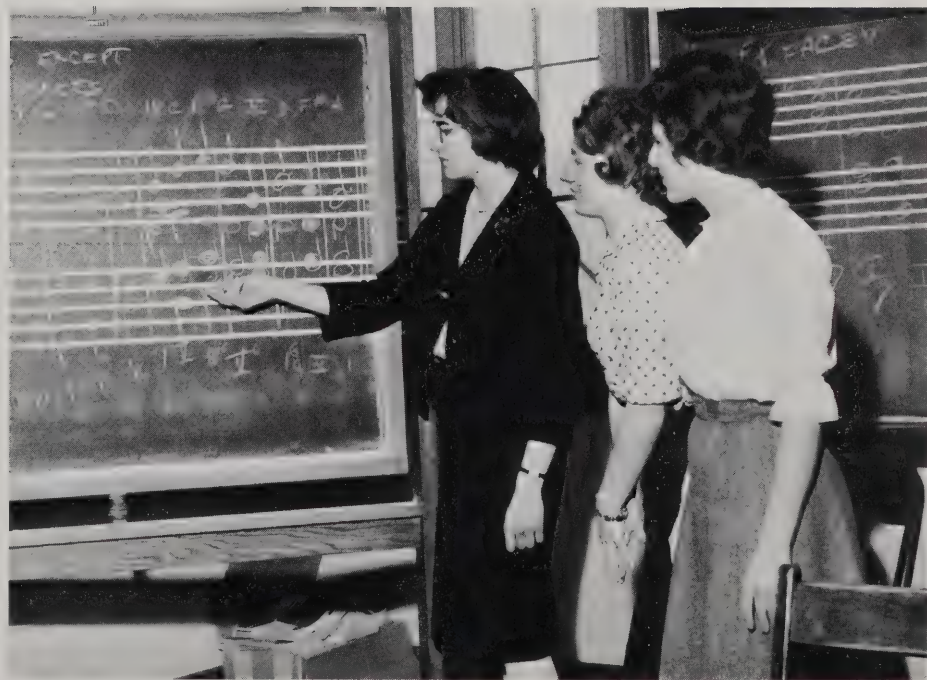

MR. VINCENT O'KEEFFE

Mr. O'Keeffe the director of the instrumental music groups, is a graduate of Boston University, and Columbia University. He conducts the concert band, which is open to all band instrumentalists, and the orchestra which is open to many of our string players. In addition to these groups, Mr. O'Keeffe conducts many smaller groups such as the stage band and brass ensemble. Here, he rehearses the Classical Quintet.

MISS VIRGINIA YURO

Miss Yuro, a newcomer to Classical, is the director of our various choral groups. A graduate of Boston University S.F.A.A., she has studied at the Hartt College. Miss Yuro conducts the Girls' Chorus, a group open to the girls in all classes; the Boys' Chorus, a group open to boys in all classes; the Madrigal, a group of auditioned juniors and seniors; the Choir, a group of selected juniors and seniors; and teaches a harmony and theory class. Here, Miss Yuro explains a few fine points in music to some harmony and theory students.

A healthy mind in a healthy body

Girls' gym teachers, Mrs. Denison and Mrs. Desrochers, prepare to instruct a class in folk dancing.

MRS. AUDREY C. DESROCHERS

Mrs. Desrochers, who is chairman of the girls' gym department, is a graduate of Sargent College of Boston University. She instructs the junior and senior girls' physical education classes at Classical. In addition, Mrs. Desrochers advises the cheerleaders and co-ordinates the girls' Drill Team. Outside of school, although she is kept pretty busy taking care of her four children, Mrs. Desrochers enjoys sewing and knitting.

MRS. MARTHA DENISON

Mrs. Denison, who is new to Classical this year is a graduate of Denison University and of Columbia University. She teaches physical education to freshmen girls. Also, Mrs. Denison conducts intramural girls' sports and sponsors the Girls' Athletic Association. Among her many outside interests are collecting antiques, refinishing furniture, and working as a hospital volunteer.

The girls' physical education program at Classical is quite a well-rounded one. In the spring and in the fall, the girls' gym classes are held outdoors on the grounds of the Springfield Armory. There the girls learn the skills of field hockey and softball in addition to getting lots of healthful exercise. During the winter, when classes are held indoors, the girls learn the techniques of playing basketball and volleyball, performing on various pieces of apparatus, dancing, and tumbling. Also, each year freshmen girls are instructed in hygiene, junior girls are instructed in drivers' education, and senior girls are instructed in badminton. Mrs. Desrochers is pictured here instructing a freshman hygiene class on proper posture.

is also a tradition at Classical.

Mr. Hart looks over some physical fitness records.

MR. JOSEPH GALLANT

Much of the task of keeping Classical's boys physically fit and alert is the responsibility of Mr. Joseph Gallant. Here Mr. Gallant is making a routine weight check for David Tebaldi. Mr. Gallant came to Classical in 1962 after having graduated from Franklin College, and having attended Springfield College, Ball State Teachers' College, and the University of Illinois. He coaches wrestling, track, basketball, and football. When he is not busy teaching boys' physical education, Mr. Gallant conducts a drivers' education classroom course.

MR. DONALD VAUGHAN

The lunchroom and custodial staffs perform their tasks efficiently

Lunchtime at Classical is quite hectic as anyone of the lunchroom staff can tell you. The cashiers who brave the throng of hungry Classicalites are Doreen Gagnon, Krystine Callahan, Kathleen Callahan, Sue McCook, Linda Quintin, Emily Witkowsky, Carol Hincley, Carol Bill, Susan Stearns and Dolores Bill. Their work is well done.

M a k i n g change quickly keeps the milk line moving. Here, Kathleen Callahan takes money from Leonard Talevi, while Elaine Ciak, Maureen Chernick, and Joyce Balbos wait their turn. Cashiers volunteer their services during the lunch periods and are paid a weekly appropriate wage. Their services are appreciated by the students.

Here, Doreen Gagnon has apparently avoided the lunch-time rush, and is awaiting her change from cashier Sue McCook. Most of the time the lunch line is full, and knowledge of the use of the cash register and of making change quickly are basic skills employed by the cashiers.

to keep the school running smoothly.

The meals provided by Classical's lunchroom staff are well planned and include basic requirements for growing students. Both hot and cold lunches are available, each high in nutritive value, to the students. These ladies, Ada Reel, Bernadette Cocchi, Mary O'Connor, Lura Roger, Kathy Tarneau, Josephine Saracino, Dora Rickson, and Dorothy Shippee are responsible for our fine lunches.

Pictured here, waiting to begin the lunch for the day, are two cooks, Sue Hemsworth and Lura Roger, and Mrs. Scully, a cashier. The ladies prepare meals for both the students and faculty and serve them in the lunchroom. The meals are apparently good because the line is always full.

The custodians keep the school in efficient working order. They repair hazards which endanger the students and their clothing. Long after the halls have been deserted by the student and faculty population, the custodians are hard at work preparing the school for another day. Besides their regular duties, they are available during emergencies.

The custodians were unable to have their photographs taken because of their busy schedule. Mr. DuBois, shown carrying a ladder to repair an unhinged door, was kind enough to take a moment out and pose for the photographer. These able-bodied custodians do a fine job and are much appreciated.

THE WILLIAM PYNCHON MEMORIAL BUILDING

The William Pynchon Memorial Building, which is the home of the Connecticut Valley Historical Society, was opened to the public in Springfield, Massachusetts on December 1, 1927. A beautiful example of colonial architecture furnished with articles of the colonial period, the building was erected in honor of William Pynchon, the founder of the city of Springfield. William Pynchon was born in Springfield, Essex, England about 1590 and came to Massachusetts in 1630. Of the leisure class, he had received a good education and legal training and came to the United States mainly for economic reasons. Pynchon settled first in Roxbury, Massachusetts where he remained until 1635 when he sailed for the Connecticut River. He purchased a strip of land from the Indians in 1636 on which he established the town of Springfield. The students of Classical can be compared to William Pynchon in that they are conscientious and persevering just as he was. On the opposite page, Linda Bailey, David Tebaldi, Phyllis Judson, Birgitte Madsen, Andrew Cokkinias, Marie Cortelli, and Jean Valenti are pictured at a recent visit to the William Pynchon Memorial Building.

The devoted advisers and the capable officers of the senior class

Miss Christine Sauer

Mr. Armen Jermakian

As you receive your diplomas as members of the class of 1964, my best wishes go with you. During the past three years you have been engaged in one of the most important activities of life, the pursuit of wisdom and understanding. While the formal knowledge which you have acquired is important, the strength of character and the maturity of judgment which you have developed as students will probably prove even more helpful in facing the problems of life. As the Book of Proverbs tells us, "Then shalt thou understand righteousness and justice and equity, yea, every good path. For wisdom shall enter into thy soul. Discretion shall watch over thee; discernment shall guard thee to deliver thee from the way of evil."

May the years you have spent here in preparation enable you to achieve happiness and success in college, in marriage and in your chosen career.

Philip Miller

To all members of the Class of '64:
Here is a challenge for you.
May you dedicate your learning and your lives to these ends:

WANTED

"God give us men! A time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill,
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, — men who will not lie,
Men who can stand before a demagogue,
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking!
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty, and in private thinking."

Christine Sauer

Upon completion of this important phase of your life, I hope that we at Classical have prepared you well enough to enable you to achieve greater success in the years to come. Success does not come easily and has to be earned to be fully appreciated. You have demonstrated your capacity to learn, and may you use your knowledge wisely.

Armen Jermakian

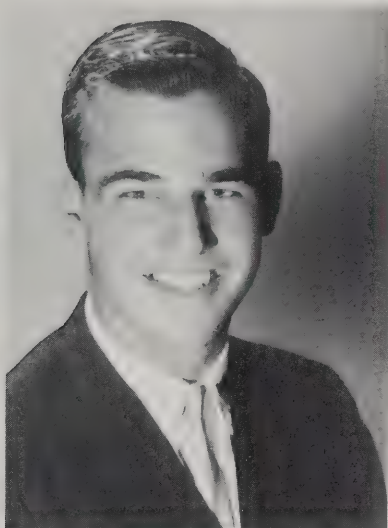

It has been a great pleasure to work with the class of '64. I am sure that if you are faithful to the training given you, you will be successful in your future endeavors.

In departing from this ancient structure of wooden floors, scratched desks, and perilous loggia doors, we take with us unforgettable memories, and we leave behind a symbol of fine education.

Some of the most important years of our lives are now behind us. Since the needs of today's world demand more and more from people, the furthering of our education is mandatory. If we should fall short in attaining our goals, we should not be discouraged but try again.

Classical has certainly provided us with experience in making important decisions and laboring under strenuous loads. It has given us, as only a fine educational institution can, deep insight and mature knowledge and understanding. It is my hope that each graduate of the class of 1964 will use his knowledge proudly and wisely.

My deepest thanks go to all of you who have helped to make this year a memorable one. It has been especially rewarding to work with such efficient fellow-officers who have many times relieved me of extra burdens. Many others have given me much needed inspiration.

May good health and happiness be with each of you in the days to come, and may you face the years with wisdom, certain that God will guide you and protect you from harm.

Bill plans a career in math.

NORMAN ADRIAN
138 Price Street

Most of Norman's time while at Classical has been taken up by the crew team. As a member of three years, Norman has been a great asset to the team. When not studying or rowing with the crew teams, Norman enjoys fishing and reading. Norman's plans for the future include a college education.

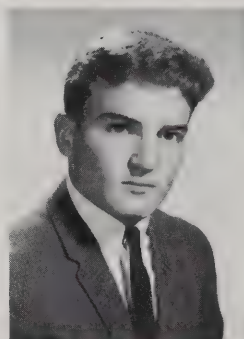

MICHAEL ARPAIO
21 Cedar Street

Mike and sports seem to have been made for each other. Starting in his freshman year Mike made the basketball, football, and track teams. Except for basketball, Mike stayed on these teams during his junior and senior years. He has also been in the choir during his junior and senior years. Mike's outside activities also center around sports and so do his plans for the future.

GREGORY ALICANDRI
78 Wayne Street

Greg, an old standby at Classical, has participated in very few activities at Classical, but he did play soccer. Outside of school, most of Greg's interests lie in the field of sports. A thoroughly modest man, Greg feels his two greatest assets are "an excellent mind and a sense of humor." About Greg's departure, we can only echo his own sentiments, "we will all suffer the loss of this remarkable man."

GINNA, a talented artist, has served as the vice-president of the Art Club during her senior year. Ginna has participated in other varied activities at Classical including the Red Cross, I.R.C., G.A.A., the French Club, Girls Patrol, and the Student Leader program. In her spare time she enjoys drawing, sewing, cooking and all types of sports. In the future Ginna plans to attend school in New York and become a fashion designer.

RICHARD HILL
624 Union Street

Richard, a conscientious history student, has carried a strong program of history at Classical and plans to major in either ancient history or modern history at college. In his spare time, Richard enjoys collecting classical music, swimming, and dancing.

SHARON LACHANCE
51 Dresden Street

Sharon transferred to Classical after the beginning of her senior year from Keene High School, in Keene, New Hampshire. During her three years at Keene, Sharon played varsity hockey for two years and varsity basketball for one. Sharon was also a representative to the Student Council during her junior year. In her spare time, Sharon enjoys swimming and dancing. She plans to enter a career in teaching.

HEIDI MATHIS
22 Green Lane

Heidi transferred to Classical from MacDuffie School for Girls where she was vice-president of her sophomore class and a member of the Latin Club. At Classical, she has been a member of I.R.C., the Ski Club, and the B.I.C. Club. Outside of school, Heidi plays the guitar, knits, and skis both on water and on snow. She hopes to attend a junior college.

DONALD SPELLACY
15 Cumberland Street

Since Don hasn't been at Classical long, he hasn't had time to participate in any activities. He finds, however, that doing homework after school takes up a large enough amount of time. He also has an after-school job at a local drug store. Between these two jobs, Don is "also busy doing something." Don's plans for the future are, at present, rather uncertain.

LINDA OLDS
425 Alden Street

Linda, a very conscientious student, has spent her senior year of high school studying in Neuchâtel, Switzerland. While at Classical, Linda was an active member of the National Honor Society and she served as president of the French Club, secretary of the G.A.A., secretary-treasurer of the German Club, and secretary of the History Club. This past year she has served as foreign correspondent to the Recorder as well as being the honorary editor-in-chief of the publication. Linda, who likes to be doing something all the time, enjoys swimming, sailing, dancing, playing tennis, and playing the piano in her spare time. She plans to attend a liberal arts college where she will probably major in the humanities.

CHRISTOPHER SCOTT
70 Dryads Green
Northampton

A truly outstanding scholar, Chris was admitted to M.I.T., where he is pursuing a career in the field of science, after his junior year of high school! During his two years at Classical, Chris was a member of the Chess Club and the Science Club, which he served as president in his junior year. He was a Mathlete and an alternate to the "As Schools Match Wits" Team. A talented writer, Chris worked on the Carousel script and on the Scribe, Classical's literary magazine. Among his favorite pastimes are playing the classical guitar, rock-climbing, bike riding, and reading.

Classical seniors attain finalist status

Esther Ferster, John Lyons, Peter Krause, Alexander Mironoff, Richard Schubach, Alexander McCarthy, Ronald Weiss, and Carl

Widland, eight of the ten Classical National Merit Semi-finalists, now finalists, walk proudly with their certificates.

On September 25, 1963, it was announced that Esther Ferster, Peter Krause, John Lyons, Alexander Mironoff, Alexander McCarthy, Linda Olds, Richard Schubach, Christopher Scott, Ronald Weiss, and Carl Widland had been selected semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program. These Classical students are among the 13,000 students throughout the country who attained semi-finalist status. They represent less than one half of one per cent of the nation's graduating secondary school senior population.

High school juniors are all eligible to participate in the National Merit Program. A test is administered and high scoring students are selected as semi-finalists. These semi-finalists must fill out a biographical statement which must be accompanied by the principal's recommendation. Their scores on a second examination must substantiate their performance on the first examination, and they must submit a financial form. Finalists are selected and as finalists, students are eligible for scholarship awards sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Program and about one hundred seventy-five business corporations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations, and individuals. Scholarships offered are limited to the funds available and are awarded on a basis of financial need. The N.M.S.C. and sponsors have so far contributed about seventeen million dollars in direct financial assistance to Merit Scholars and their colleges.

The National Merit Program was established in 1955 with grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. In 1962, the Ford Foundation announced an additional grant to continue the program through 1970.

Nearly 7,500 Merit Scholars have been appointed to date. In addition, through the program's special services, thousands of other outstanding participants have been helped in obtaining aid from other sources, and many colleges have been assisted in their efforts to locate the intellectually able.

Fun and good discussion were combined at the Alumni Tea.

Every year, the National Honor Society invites the graduates from the previous year to attend an Alumni Tea. On December 21 of this year, Robert Sullivan, Marty Gold, and Marlene Rodgers, got together to answer some of Cathy Dunn's (far left) questions about college.

Although the main purpose of the Alumni Tea is to acquaint the undergraduates with college, some of the guests could not resist "hashing-over old times." Here Evan Bellin, Lee Cassanelli, Michael Edwards, and Douglas Clark are recalling those good times at Classical with Demetrious Spelios listening.

The members of the Honor Society worked diligently decorating the cafeteria and providing refreshments. Arline Horowitz, a member of the hospitality committee, is serving thirsty Demetrious Spelios some punch. Judging from the happy facial expressions, the tea was a most successful event.

Our Junior Prom, Some Enchanted Evening, an event to be remembered

The Class of '64's junior prom is a traditional event, and one which is associated with the good times at Classical. Not only do the students enjoy themselves but the chaperones as well. Howie Uman, an usher, is introducing Walter Sagon and his date to Mr. and Mrs. Montagna and Mr. and Mrs. Ramos.

Every year the upperclassmen attend the junior prom and April 18, 1963, was no exception. From the balcony at the Sheraton-Kimball, these guests have an excellent view of "who is with whom" and "what the fashionable are wearing." The onlookers have a pleasant setting and excellent music from Bernie Cohen's band.

The court of Some Enchanted Evening included Rinah Abramson, Cathy Dunn, Sandy Hayden, and Ginna Kelly. The queen of the prom, Nancy Donnelly, is pictured at the left with her escort Paul Mador. Like all good things, this wonderful evening came to an end all too soon, but it will long be remembered.

The advisers and officers help

Available to members of the junior class are the very talented advisers. Besides their regular duties, they direct the activities of this class. During the last year, as is typical of advisers in the past, they have devoted much of their time to solving problems and making plans for the future, all of which have helped to create a profitable year. At a discussion in the library are these class advisers: Mr. Courtney, Mrs. Beverley, Miss Tower and Mr. Szetela.

The dynamic spirit of the junior class has continued to promote our traditions of good scholarship and service. Members of the junior activities committee began the year by sponsoring a "sweat shirt drive." These sweat shirts carried the name of Classical, and their sale provided a profitable money-raising project. "Memory Lane," a dance held in February, gave students the opportunity to recall the hit tunes of past years. Records, hung from the ceiling at various lengths, served as decorations. Later in the year, the class enjoyed its annual class picnic and finished out the year with its Junior Prom, held at the Kimball Towers. The class of '65 has carried out the traditions of past classes and helped to set the pattern for future years. With the success of two years behind them, they may look toward their senior year with eagerness.

The class of '65 has benefited tremendously from the work of its efficient officers. They served their class faithfully and have done their best to produce a successful year. As is customary with officers of a class, they have earned the appreciation of their fellow classmates and can be proud of the job they have done. Pictured here are the junior officers: Bruce Bullen, president; Richard Romboletti, secretary; Heddy Lissberger, member-at-large; Richard Fullerton, vice-president; Kenneth Cohn, treasurer.

are the junior members of the service organizations.

Maintaining the tradition of excellent service to the school are those members of the junior class who are in one of the special homerooms. These three homerooms, Blue and White, Girls Patrol, and Boys Patrol, train the juniors to uphold the high standards already established at Classical High.

Each fall Blue and White accepts ten juniors whose duty it is to help put out the yearbook. These juniors learn the various techniques of yearbook production and thus become a vital part of the staff. When the seniors graduate, it is these juniors that must continue the tradition of a fine yearbook.

Girls Patrol chooses several girls at the end of their freshman year to help keep Classical running smoothly. Indeed, these girls diligently work helping in the office, collecting absentee slips, and distributing programs at Carousel and graduation.

Several boys from the junior class become members of the Boys Patrol. These juniors help the patrol to maintain order ushering at school functions, patrolling in the halls, and ready to perform necessary errands. All of these members of the class of '65 are certainly maintaining the tradition of fine service to Classical High.

JUNIOR SERVICE TO THE SCHOOL

Wishing to give their service to Classical High are those of the junior class on Boys Patrol: Gary Mullet, Ronald DuPuis, Nicholas Frangus, Ted Fantl, Gene Fantl, Richard Romboletti, Alan Brainerd, Ted Sandquist, William Bridgman, Kenneth Cohn, and Paul Raverta.

The eleven junior girls serving on the Girls Patrol are: Janice Bennett, Susan Bednarzyk, Nancy Stuart, Judith Clayton, Priscilla Fairbanks, Gail Harris, Cynthia Larder, Coreen Franklin, Lynn Gootzit, Sharon Fanti, Linda Genden.

The Class of 1966 has followed

Pictured in the library, busy examining plans for various class activities are the freshman class advisers, Mr. Stevens, Miss King, Mr. Girr, and Miss Rouillard. Throughout the year they have aided the freshmen in organizing ideas into successful events.

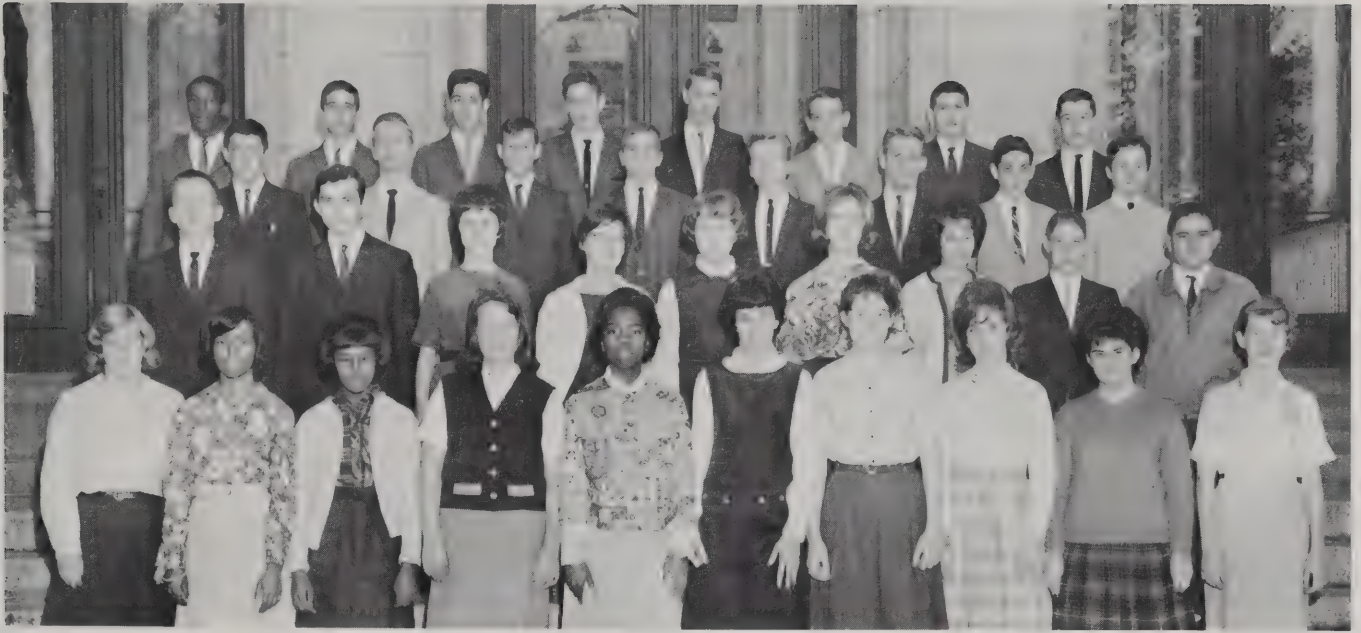

This year the Classical student body voted to select a standard school ring rather than a class ring. Mr. Cullen, a representative of the Josten Ring Co., is showing various ring styles to Mary Montori, William Metzger, Jonathan Bozbeckian, and Steven Berman of the freshman class.

After freshmen have become acquainted with the traditions of Classical High School, they are invited to participate in the elections conducted by Student Government. Candidates take out papers for signatures, make campaign speeches, and hope to win the election. The lucky freshman officers are Mary Montori, secretary; William Metzger, president; Jonathan Bozbeckian, treasurer; and Steven Berman, vice-president.

THE GEORGE WALTER VINCENT SMITH ART MUSEUM

In 1878, George Walter Vincent Smith sponsored the first major art exhibit in Springfield, Massachusetts. Because of the favorable response of the people of Springfield, an annual art exhibit was organized, and Mr. Smith was encouraged to establish an art museum. A brilliant figure in the life of Springfield, George Walter Vincent Smith was so successful in his own manufacturing business that he was able to retire at the age of thirty-five and devote his life to the collection of art objects. The extensive collection, gathered from all parts of the world by Mr. Smith and his wife, was transferred to the City Library Association in 1914. The collection includes jades, crystals, porcelain, cloisonné enamels, Oriental rugs, arms and armor from the Far East, India, and Europe, bronzes, silver, illuminated manuscripts, furniture of many countries and eras, textiles, laces, embroideries, paintings, and sculptures. A favorite cultural activity of the students at Classical is visiting the George Walter Vincent Smith Art Museum. On the opposite page, Jean Valenti, Linda Bailey, David Tebaldi, Andrew Cokkinias, Margaret Sheldon, Birgitte Madsen, and Marie Cortelli are pictured admiring the architecture of the museum.

careful planning in distribution

One of the first activities established at Classical High School was the publication of a yearbook. A staff of selected seniors and juniors undertake to record the events of the year. The literary staff cooperates with the business staff in taking care of the advertising and also the circulation of the yearbook.

The business staff of the yearbook includes students at Classical High who either serve on the advertising staff or help with circulation. Those on the advertising staff have helped defray the cost of the Blue and White by filling the final pages of this book with advertisements.

Students purchase the yearbook from the Blue and White agents who in turn give the money to the yearbook circulation managers. Here, Dick Fullerton is handing over yearbook money to one of the two circulation managers, James Clapprood. Miss Porter, business faculty adviser, and Bruce Meisner, the other circulation manager, are determining approximately how much they will have to collect from the students.

as well as in layout and writing.

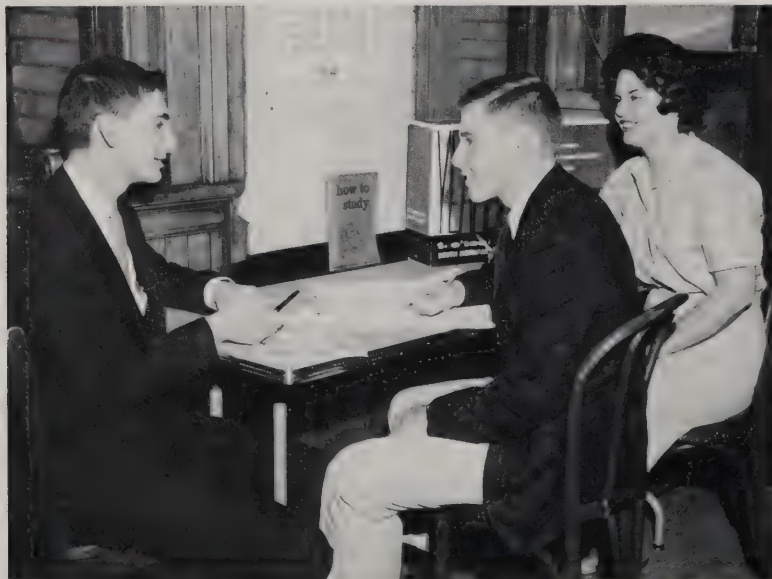

Those on the literary staff of the Classical yearbook, Blue and White, have traditionally produced a fine account of the events of the school year. Returning from their summer vacation, the ten seniors along with the new staff members, ten juniors, select the theme that will be carried throughout the yearbook. After the editor-in-chief, Phyllis Judson, gives the assignments, each student in 122 is ready to begin work.

To find out what each organization plans to do for the coming year is the first task. In the picture on the left, Miss Tower, a new German teacher, is explaining to staff members David Tebaldi and Jean Valenti about her background in teaching. Immediately after the interview the two staff members discuss the notes together and come upon the write-up for the new German teacher at Classical High School.

Before the staff sends the write-up to the printer, the literary staff determines an appealing lay-out page and carefully plans what the dimensions of the pictures will be, where they will place the identifications, and how much copy they should print. For this task, the editor of each section must analyze what is absolutely essential and what they can discard.

Several of the members have gathered to collect all of the material for the senior section and organize it for the printer. Allan Meyers, Janet Quimby and Kathy Robertson are making sure the pictures of the seniors are in alphabetical order, Brigitte Madsen and Marie Cortelli are aligning the write-ups for these seniors, and Ruth Davidson and Linda Bailey are proofreading them.

While there is a major emphasis on the faculty and senior sections at the beginning of the year, other groups organize their material for the printer. Some staff members tell about the freshman and junior class, a few others report the sports events, and still others record all the school activities.

Often the members of a section must argue over a point to plan a page properly. Kenneth Sinclair is explaining to Dick Fullerton and Margaret Sheldon what they should place on the first page. They, of course, disagree. However, after the discussion they will have completed plans for this page and have made a fine start on their section.

The SCRIBE, our literary magazine, publishes the work of all classes.

Last fall four members of the Blue and White, Ruth Davidson, Phyllis Judson, Brigitte Madsen, and Margaret Sheldon, attended the Columbia Press Conference in New York City. The two-day conference included lectures and workshops to help improve the quality of yearbook layout, copy, photography and art work. Other sessions were held for advisers and members of the business staff. The highlight of the program was a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria at which Mr. Eliot Elisofon, Staff Photographer for Life magazine, spoke on "Dynamism in High School Yearbooks." Here Ruth Davidson proudly shows the first prize certificate awarded to the 1963 Blue and White to Mr. and Mrs. James Gail Sheldon and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Davidson.

The Scribe, in its third year of publication, has included the best short stories, poems, and essays, submitted by members of all three classes. After the selection of articles has been made by the staff, under the direction of Miss Mills, the magazine is laid out. The art staff has planned appropriate art work including block prints and line drawings. With the magazine off to the printer, however, the work of the Scribe staff has not been completed. A dynamic advertising campaign must promote sales. Posters around the school have interested students in purchasing the magazine. The efforts of the Scribe staff have made the faculty and student body aware of the many talented writers in the school.

Henry A. Black — Adviser

Mr. Black, adviser to the Recorder, points out some principles of page arrangements to members of the 11j class, who will take over Recorder production next year. "11jers" pictured are (seated) Susan Packard, (standing) Barbara Comeau, Naomi Scott, John McKelligott, Karen Glazier, and Linda Taliaferro.

To give recognition to those students in the senior class who have made an outstanding contribution to their class and their school either by their academic or athletic record or by their participation in extra-curricular activities, the Recorder publishes a special Student-of-the-Month article. From nominations of the senior home-rooms a boy and girl are chosen by the members of Student Government and the officers of each class. Shown here are Student-of-the-Month editors, Theo Snyder and Charles Lieson, and staff member, Daniel Solo, interviewing Sandra Hayden, recently elected student of the month.

The purpose of Classical Recorder, as stated by its Managing Editor, is to "serve the students, the faculty, and the administration of Classical High School by publishing a newspaper to help them learn what is going on in and around the school, as well as in the city, state, country, and world." The Recorder staff reports the activities of individuals and organizations in the school. This coverage includes reports of special awards and honors as well as club activities, sports, and social events.

Special features including the Frosh Coloring Book, the Recorder Coloring Contest, the Candid Custodian Column, and the Letters to the Editor column draw student interest to the paper. The sports' page, one of the most popular among students, records the scores of recent games and boosts Classical morale with its enthusiastic support and complete coverage of all Classical athletic events. Each month an outstanding athlete is honored in the Athlete-of-the-Month column on this page.

Reviews on a wide range of movies and books, including The Reluctant Saint, Bye Bye Birdie, and The Haunting, broaden the interests of Classical students. The Recorder also tries to report world events of special interest to high school students. In trying to cover world news as well as school news, the Recorder publishes editorials on such topics as the South Viet Nam crisis and the recent civil rights conflict in the South and North. Other editorials point out problems within the school and suggest possible solutions.

Writing articles and laying out pages is not the only work of the Recorder staff. An efficient business staff must sell advertisements and supervise circulation for the Recorder. The art and photography staff works together to illustrate the paper effectively, while industrious typists get the copy ready for the printer. With the help of their adviser, the staff of the Recorder works together to provide Classical with a prize-winning newspaper.

Much of the work of putting together the Recorder is done in room 208. Here are staff members Sandra Hayden, Steven Kaplan, Arline Horowitz, Rodger Boe, Judi Corvin, Doria Martinelli, and Marcia Young.

The Christmas Concert, a tradition at Classical

The aspiration for success characterized the Madrigal, both Girls' and Boys' Choruses, and the choir, under the direction of Miss Virginia Yuro, our new choral music director.

The Christmas concert, the most important choral concert of the first semester, was presented by the Madrigal, the Choir, both Girls' and Boys' Choruses, the brass ensemble, and the orchestra which started the program with Christmas carols. Nearing the end of an excellent performance by all the groups, which showed the growing tradition of fine music at Classical, the combined choral groups shown at the left joined with the alumni in singing the traditional song "O Holy Night."

The Madrigal singers, a group of twenty-four selected members, mostly seniors, have distinguished themselves this year through artistic performances. Such performances like those of the Christmas and Spring Concerts as well as the many performances for civic functions in the Greater Springfield area, have demonstrated the capability for Madrigal singers to show their remarkable control and exuberance. The most popular selection of the Madrigal has been the sacred oratorio "He Watching Over Israel" by Felix Mendelssohn.

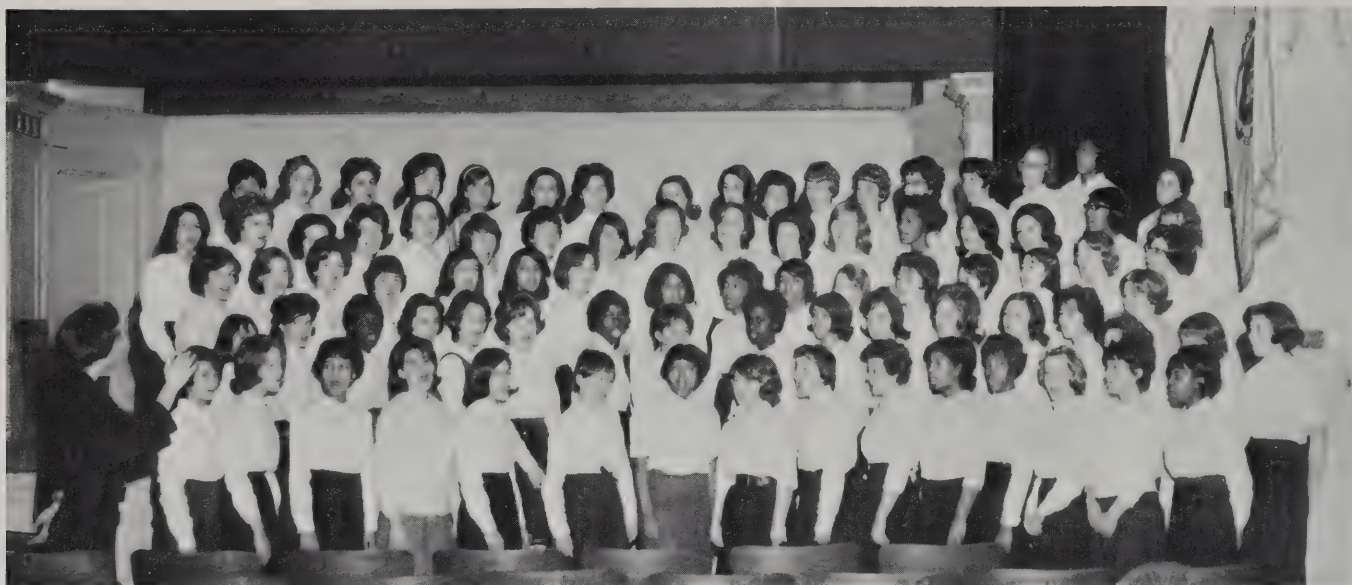

The Boys' Chorus, one of the smallest choral groups under Miss Yuro's direction, rehearses diligently two periods a week during the school year to prepare for their performances at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. The favorite selection of the Boys' Chorus has been the humorous song, "Tom Dooley."

The Boys' Chorus has met Wednesdays and Fridays throughout the school year, rehearsing for many school concerts. (front row) Marvin Deyampert, Harold Dash, Phillip Gordon, Mark Mackler; (second row) Gilbert Jones, Michael Weiner, Maurice Nichols, Michael Braddon, Harvey

The Girls' Chorus, consisting of girls from all classes, rehearses in three sections throughout the school year: (front row) Judy Martone, Barbara Raschi, Marcia Cook, Marilyn Katz, Susan Mador, Arlene Nathan, Dorothea Jackson, Carolyn Burrill, Ellen Sealander, Linda Cotti, Teresa Haskins, Cynthia Moreland, Betty Lange, Jean Butler, Sylvia Barksdale; (second row) Susan Sherman, Linda Cohn, Terrill Burnett, Robyn Fountain, Andrea Gibbs, Maureen Desrosiers, Jean Butler, Catherine Rioni, Patricia Deyampert, Gwendolyn Holeman, Christine Lamica, Carol Bowker, Emily Witkowsky, Bonnie Ascher, Betsy Hayes, Betty Schofield, Pat Palazzo, Suzanne Samotis; (third row) Susan Elkins, Kathy Schubach, Susan Taylor, Donna Eagles, Paula Later, Andano Bryan, Helen Sawyer,

The Girls' Chorus, which consists of girls from all classes rehearses in three sections twice a week throughout the school year. The largest choral group at Classical, the chorus sang this year for both the Christmas and Spring Concerts at which the girls put forth their best efforts and gave an outstanding performance. Some of the favorite selections of the girls in the chorus were Rock-a-my-Soul and Salangadou.

The sixty-five member Choir comprises both male and female voices. They gave their first performance at the American Education Week assembly. Later in the year, the Choir sang at both the Christmas and Spring Concerts. An efficient and effective musical group, the Choir has certainly been an asset to Classical.

The instrumental music groups under the direction of Mr. O'Keeffe have performed throughout the year in many school and civic functions. At the Christmas concert the orchestra opened the evening with various Christmas carols. Later in the program another instrumental music group, the brass ensemble, displayed its excellent intonation in a special arrangement presenting bell-tone effects.

Another group which was quite popular this year was the swinging Dixie Band with their jazzed-up version of Down the Field and many other selections. The Dixie Band, a very enthusiastic group, performed for both pep rallies and the basketball games held at the Springfield College Field House on Friday nights.

The Quintet, the smallest musical group at Classical, consists of a bassoon, clarinet, oboe, horn, and flute. By practicing both by themselves and under the direction of Mr. O'Keeffe, the Quintet has established a sound reputation. As a result of their achievements, the Quintet highlighted its year with a performance on the television program, At Home with Kitty.

The Dance Band under Mr. O'Keeffe's direction was well received in all its performances, both here and in many junior high schools where it appeared. The Dance Band's main job during the year was its performances for Carousel where it played a major part and a great advantage to the show.

Starting the school year our large energetic Concert and Field Band began its vigorous marching and drilling practice to prepare for football games.

both Girls' and Boys' Choruses, Choir, and Madrigal.

The Choir presented an extraordinary performance for the American Education Assembly: (front row) D. Waltein, C. Bryant, F. Rachleff, T. Pevzner, K. Tillman, S. Atwater, M. Bogen, P. Kerscher, C. Goldsmith, J. Maher, L. Mysliwy, J. Scibelli, and B. Townsend; (second row) D. Evans, N. Herndon, B. Durkee, L. Bartels, C. Gibson, P. Gootzit, M. Parish, C. Whittle, P. Price, L. Gorman, M. Our great variety of instrumental music added

Besides participating on the field during half-time for all football games, the band marched in many civic parades in the Greater Springfield area. As a result of the Classical High Band's effort in the October, Columbus Day Parade, the band was honored with a first-place trophy for an exceptional performance as the "best band" in the parade. At the close of the football season the band began to undertake its challenging concert music for spring performances.

In the spring the Concert Band not only performed an excellent concert here, but also performed as well at many of the city's junior high schools. At the end of the year the band made plans for cutting a record.

With such high standards that the Classical Concert and Field Band has set, it is no wonder that each member has such great pride for the band representing our school.

The Dixie Band has done much this year to promote school spirit: Leader, Andrew Cokkinias, trumpet; John Thomas, bass; Alex Moles, clarinet; Peter Krause, trombone; Frank Ruscio and Bill McCullough, drums.

The Quintet famous for its beautiful chamber music: Adele Newman, Gil Vickers, Gene Fantl, Ethan Sloane, and Ted Fantl.

Student Government carries out the newly-made tradition of a Christmas dance and supervises the class elections and the school store.

As soon as the school year starts, Student Government seeks money from its classmates to fill the S.G. treasury. These Classicalites are the S.T. agents who filled the treasury: (front row) Sharon Traft, Karen Jurkowski, Maura Levine, Elizabeth Berrelli, Miriam Trementozzi, Dawn Baker, Donna Hellyer, Linda Mysliwy, Jean Scongall; (second row) Leslie Kimball, Carolyn Hawley, Roni Posner, Sandra Newman, Cynthia Greenberg, Linda Talliafero, Maria Hicks, Susan Kasper; (back row) Iraline Green, Jean Valenti, Steven Novak, Gary Mullet, Kenneth Sinclair, George Ryan, George Capaccio, Howard Libowitz, Christopher White, and Antonia Tapeses.

Besides starting the year off with the S. T. drive, Student Government decorated the front hall and greeted the new freshmen class with a special welcoming assembly and a dance held in the Classical gym. The members of the organization then proceeded to supervise Student of the Month elections. Ten times a year a boy and girl from the senior class were selected by S. G. and junior and senior class officers to be honored in the Classical Recorder.

For three class elections, the S. G. Election Committee was there ready to handle the voting and to count the ballots. At the freshman class election, Alex McCarthy is keeping watch on the ballot-box. Eagerly waiting their turn to vote are several members of the freshman class: Nancy Bale, Elaine Cavanaugh, Michael Arslin, and Joel Bolden.

Seeking to strengthen the bonds between Student Government and the student body, the organization this year conducted a referendum in which Classical students voted to have a school ring instead of separate class rings. For scholarships to deserving seniors, Student Government has raised money from their dances and from the school store.

Selling is also an important job of Student Government. If the members aren't selling tickets to one of their dances, they are in the school store peddling school supplies and tickets for the football and basketball games. Twice a week some members from Student Government man the store. Here, several members of the School Store committee are giving their time to serve the student body and to raise money for scholarships: Alex McCarthy, Steve Novak, Bruce Bullen, Jim O'Malley, and Bruce Meisner.

Again this year Student Government held its semi-formal dance, this time at the Schine Inn. Originated two years ago, the Holiday Semi-Formal was planned to provide an all-school night of enjoyment during the holiday season. To plan this event, freshman, junior and senior members of Student Government committees worked to provide festive decorations and enjoyable music. Another committee supervised the nomination of two candidates from each class, one of whom would be chosen queen of the dance. Student Government president Seth Kurn is shown crowning Cathy Dunn queen. Watching Cathy being crowned are some of the members of her court, Nancy Herndon, Sandra Hayden, Heddy Lissberger, and Gail Maden. In her court but not in this picture is Susan Mador.

Carousel, the annual musical production, relies,

Carousel principals spend long hours rehearsing for this annual school production. Running through their lines are John McGahan, Tino Galluzzo, Roger Brainerd, Nancy Posnick, Judy Ehrlich, Susan Dodge, and Howard Uman, as Shirley Horowicz directs.

CAROUSEL

In addition to the performers on the stage many students behind the scenes work to make the Carousel production run smoothly. Leonard Alexander, David Holt, Ronald Marsh, and David Bressem consult on lighting for a musical number.

"Who's Kittin' Who," this year's Carousel production, was written by Richard Hoagland, Nelson Saks, and Bruce Devens, directed by Roberta Finson and Shirley Horowicz, and produced by Leonard Alexander. The gay spoof of life in Springview revolved about Mrs. Stella Bancroft's (Judy Ehrlich) latest civic improvement crusade against Mr. Marachino, (Tino Galluzzo) and his mousetrap factory. The feud between Mrs. Bancroft and Mr. Marachino, threatens the romance between Nelson Bancroft (Richard Hoagland) and Sandy (Susan Dodge), Mr. Marachino's niece from Australia. A Marachino Mousetrap executive, (Howard Uman) and Mr. Bancroft's secretary (Nancy Posnick) provide further romantic interest.

Colorful sets for Carousel were designed by Thomas Stevens, Leonard Alexander, Robert Achin, Anthony DiMichele, Walter Sagon, and Alfred LeBlanc. Other students on the production staff were Joyce Spencer (Stage Manager), John Sheehan (Assistant Stage Manager), David Bressem (Lighting), Ronald Marsh (Sound), Karol Quinn (Costumes), Cathy Callahan and Julie Feldman (Make-Up), Mari Dow (Business Manager), John Pradella and Dan Morgeson (Publicity), Paul Lagunowich, Alfred LeBlanc, Walter Sagon, Albert Weisel, and Frank Chrzanowski (Stage Crew), and Richard Sheperd and Gordon Mear (Lighting Crew). Faculty advisers were Mr. Bernard Donnelly and Mr. Richard Pervonga (Dramatics), Mrs. Helena Laramie (Art), Mr. Vincent O'Keeffe (Band), Miss Harriet Tower (Costumes), and Miss Virginia Yuro (Vocal Music).

as do other school functions, upon the skill of the AVA.

Audio Visual Aides, under the direction of Mr. Walter Szetela, help in operating the audio visual equipment. Whenever a teacher wishes to supplement his regular class work with movies, tapes, or records, an audio visual aide is on hand to help. Each aide devotes one of his study periods to this work. The stage crew, an indispensable part of the Audio Visual Aides, operates the public address system and the lights during assemblies and school dances. This group also handles the technical aspects of the Carousel production.

AVA members Ronald Weiss, Dennis Murphy, and Joyce Spencer set up the tape recorder and projector for a film on Mexico.

makes the Classical P.T.S.A. unique.

Each fall the P.T.S.A. sponsors an Open House to which the parents of all students are invited. Each parent follows his child's program of classes, but periods are shortened to eight minutes. The purpose of this program is to acquaint every parent with his child's teachers and courses and with the facilities of the school. Here Miss Mildred Augur and student Bonnie Posner explain the use of the portable language laboratory to Mr. Melvin Lepow, Mr. and Mrs. George Posner, and Mrs. Barney Levine. The portable language laboratory is new at Classical this year.

The Classical P.T.S.A. was the first such organization to be formed in the country. It is unusual because student representatives have a voice in its operations. The Classical P.T.S.A. has grown to have the largest membership in the state.

During the past year the P.T.S.A. has sponsored many informative and entertaining programs. One of the most popular was the annual College Counseling for Parents program. At this meeting Mr. Raymond J. Montagna, Principal, and Mr. Arthur Comeau, Mrs. Margaret Ramos, and Miss Mary Corcoran, counselors, discussed choosing a college, admission requirements, College Board examinations, expenses, and scholarships. Parents then had an opportunity to ask any questions they had about college planning. The P.T.S.A. also held two events to raise money for the scholarship fund. The first of these was a food sale at which baked goods, candy, and preserves donated by P.T.S.A. members were sold. The major fund-raising event was the Fashion Show held in March. Fashions from Forbes and Wallace were modeled at this show by professional models. The P.T.S.A. also sponsored the Christmas and Spring Concerts. These concerts gave parents and students an opportunity to hear the fine vocal and instrumental music groups at Classical. The final meeting of the year was the Activities Night program. At this program each club at Classical performed a skit describing its activities. Although many parents and Classical students did attend, the main purpose of this program was to interest prospective Classical students in participating in extracurricular activities. At this meeting officers for the coming year were also installed.

The Classical P.T.S.A. promotes unity among the parents, teachers, and students by planning activities in which all may participate. The purpose of the P.T.S.A. is "to bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child."

Students, teachers, and principals work with the parents in the P.T.S.A. Seated are Mr. Russell W. Peterson, Miss Mary Corcoran, Mrs. Beulah Towne, Miss Eileen FitzGerald, and Mr. Raymond Montagna. Standing are students Esther Ferster, Beth Hawkes, Roberta Allen, Howard Uman, David Neigher, Stuart Grant, Dawn Evans, Mary Rodriguez, and Theo Snyder.

Members of the Boys Patrol traditionally maintain order and discipline throughout Classical. The patrol is stationed around the school during periods to check passes of wandering students and to keep traffic on stairways and in corridors moving between periods. The patrol also helps teachers in keeping the cafeteria orderly and takes charge of the boys' basement during the school day. Acting as "key-man" is also one of their duties in order to help forgetful students open their lockers before and after school and to keep lockers locked during the day. Although they are seldom called upon to do office work, the patrol boys are always on hand to run errands when needed. Members of the Boys Patrol willingly act as ushers at outside functions, including Carousel and graduation. As is traditional at Classical, the patrol is leading service organization for the betterment of the school.

Christmas is an annual challenge to the talents of the group. Robert Achin and Thelma Friend complete cut-paper angels on red felt panels, which brightened the entrance corridor doors.

The Art Club gives advanced art students the opportunity to do extra work in art. This extra work is responsible for many of the attractive displays around the school. The club brightens up the school for the P.T.S.A. open house and gives the halls a festive appearance for all holidays. Outstanding this year was a memorial tribute to our late president, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

At the Christmas store various items made by members of the club are sold. Christmas favors, decorative baskets, holiday plates and candles, roller bags, and an annual favorite — cookies drew everyone's interest this year. Part of the proceeds from this sale were used for good deeds — a donation to the Barbara Tuber Fund, Christmas surprises for retired teachers, and for the school, the annual gift of four Life Filmstrips for our own History of Art Library. Club members also sponsor an Alumni Art Exhibit in the school library each spring. This keeps recent graduates now at art schools and colleges in touch, while inspiring Classical's art students toward higher horizons.

Since the main purpose of the club is to further the interest of its members in art and to provide an outlet for their artistic ability, the members plan various excursions during the year. The trip to the Scholastic Art Awards Exhibit in Boston acquaints club members with what other young artists are doing. A visit to the Massachusetts College of Art in February gives club members information about art school requirements and expectations and a chance to see some art school studios. Brief visits to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the unique Mrs. Gardner's Palace in the Fenway provide added interest to this trip. As an appropriate climax to a very busy year, the club visits Rockport, an artists' colony on Cape Ann, where various studios and crafts shops, artists at work, and the Rockport Gallery are located.

The main project of the High School Red Cross is the Enrollment Drive each fall. The goal is 100% membership. Each homeroom representative and alternate encourages all students to support this worthwhile drive. Part of the money raised in this way is donated to the local chapter of the American Red Cross. The High School Red Cross also supports the International Red Cross in its rescue work around the world. By contributing to the drive all students become members of the Red Cross. Homeroom representatives also make the Red Cross Journal available to students. This magazine relates the activities of High School Red Cross Chapters across the country. It also provides entertaining articles and timely news items.

This year the High School Red Cross has continued the tradition of service to the community. Volunteers entertained patients at a Christmas party at the Westover Air Force Base Hospital. Members of the Red Cross also held parties at the Monson State Hospital and at various community centers in the area including the South End Community Center.

The membership drive each fall is an important part of the work of the Classical Red Cross. Roberta Allen presents Susan Veins with an enrollment sticker for her homeroom as Judy Rochford,

Membership in the scholastic organizations

Twice each year the National Honor Society holds an assembly to induct students who have achieved a certain academic average and have been outstanding in character, leadership, and service. At this year's first induction, before President Alexander Mironoff and Secretary Sandra Hayden (left) proceed to admit the new members, former Classical principal Dr. William C. Hill, for whom the organization is named, is about to speak on the values of education. Mr. Montagna has just introduced Dr. Hill.

Tradition was the word in the William C. Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society as the group maintained its old traditions and began new ones. The book fair which had previously been held once a year ran each week as the members raised money for books to be donated to the library in honor of outstanding students, a tradition begun only last year. Because of this fund-raising project and other possible events involving money, the National Honor Society for the first time included among its officers a treasurer. During the holiday season in December, the organization sponsored its annual Christmas Tea where Classical students were able to learn from returning alumni information concerning college. A very important event this year was the organization's revising of a section in the constitution; now the minimum 3.25 average necessary for students to enter at the end of their senior year has been raised to 3.5.

Beginning the tradition of a weekly book store for Classical High School students, several members of the Honor Society take turns working in the store. Buyers like Alan Schneider often on a Wednesday or Friday when the store is open purchase paperbacks either for school work or outside reading. Honor Society member Carol Medicke is collecting the money that is used to honor outstanding seniors.

is traditionally a great honor.

AS SCHOOLS MATCH WITS

Classical High School's As Schools Match Wits team repeated last year's effort as they once again retired after four consecutive wins. Asked by Channel 22 of Springfield to compete against other schools of the area in a quiz-type television program of short-answer questions, the team first met powerful Minnechaug Regional High School, who had last year beat Classical in the finals. This year, though, after an opening week deadlock between the two schools, Classical went on to defeat Minnechaug along with its next three challengers: Ludlow, Southwick, and St. Mary's of Westfield. If no other team wins four consecutive matches, Classical will reign as champion; however, if a team can win four, Classical will meet them for the championship in a special playoff.

MATHLETES

The spirit of interscholastic competition also spread through Classical's Mathletes as they competed with neighboring schools wishing to add interest in the subject of mathematics. Mathlete Nelson Saks (right) is carefully explaining a sample question to other mathletes: Peter Krause, Alex McCarthy, Sandra Newman, Danny Solo, Donald Blair, Kenneth Sinclair, Ronald Weiss, Alan Schaluck, Norman Cohn, Charles Lieson, and Adele Newman so they will do well in future matches. Starting off not as impressively as our champions of last year, the Mathletes after inspiring "pep talks" by their adviser Mr. Andrewes, began moving to the top. Now the Mathletes hope to retain their championship.

Senate members continue their interest in lively debates and discussion sessions, which has been a tradition at Classical for over a hundred years. Senate debaters prepare for debates on such topics as lowering voting to 18, using armed intervention in Cuba and banning prayer in public schools. A major project of the Senate is the annual Senate Tablet Debate. The adviser to the club selects the four best debaters to compete in this debate in an assembly for the school.

Each spring the Senate and Pierides send five delegates to the American International College Model Congress. This two-day event simulates the Congress at Washington with high school students from New England and New York as its Senators and Representatives. On the first day delegates are assigned to committees to discuss the bills submitted by various members of the Congress. The next day a model Senate and House of Representatives debate and take action on the bills reported from the committees. The day is completed with a banquet and the presentation of awards. This year's delegates to the Congress from the Senate and Pierides were Nathaniel Akerman, Edward Macierowski, Karen Glazier, and Margaret Sheldon.

Pierides' purpose is to promote interest in debating and the arts. Members opened the year with the annual freshman welcoming tea at which talented Classical students performed. Judy Ehrlich danced a number which she choreographed herself, and Alexander Mironoff read excerpts from his poem "The Rime of the Ancient Neurotic." A group including Arline Horowitz, Carol Hoagland, Richard Hoagland, and Roger Brainerd, formed especially for this event, sang several popular folk songs.

Other programs during the year included trips to art museums and speaker on various phases of the arts. Pierides' members also held a debate on the topic: "Resolved that the United States should work for the reunification of Germany." A special treat was a lecture by the American consul to North Ireland, Seymour Goldman, a Classical alumnus.

Alexander Mironoff shows Pierides' members: (standing) Margaret Sheldon, Mary Ellen Quirk, Melinda Waite, Linda Taliaferro; (seated) Theo Snyder, and Maryann Jennings how he prepares his own film for the projector. At the December meeting Alex showed a film titled "The Fall of the House of Usher" to the club. The production of this film grew out of an English term paper last year. The movie, based on Poe's famous short story, was written by Alex and some of his friends last spring and was filmed at the George Walter Vincent Smith Art Museum. Pierides' members found this original art project most entertaining.

Learning about the people of France is the main interest of the French Club. By means of exchange packages with students in France, members receive magazines in French as well as objects such as dolls which show the native dress of France. Francine Abadie, a French student from the University of Massachusetts, gave a talk about the school systems of her native country. Mr. Kirby Judd of Longmeadow High School who taught in France, discussed the life there. Mr. Achilles Bertrand from Classical Junior High explained the new French exchange program of which he is an adviser.

One of the highlights this year of the German Club was the singing of German folk songs. The symbols on this chart inspire the club members to compose the lyrics for the old German favorite Die Schnitzelbank. A soloist, Becky Hartshorn, sings the first verse, and then she is joined by a chorus of the remaining members, Donna Regis, Paul Magnani, Alan Schneider, Alan Kaye, Louis Kornetsky, Shirley Horowitz, Carol Bill, John Boiteau, and Maria Hicks.

Two movies, one a travelogue of German cities and the other, a report on skiing in Germany, acquainted the club with the traditions and culture of the German people. Dr. Brainerd, a professor of botany at Springfield College, lectured on forests in Germany, and Mr.

Kohl, born and educated in Germany, spoke on the relationship of the German language to its people. Also the adviser, Miss Tower, who participated in a seminar in Germany, showed the club slides about traveling in Germany.

During the Christmas season the club members had their annual Christmas party where they had a special discussion comparing the German Christmas to our own. The year marked the advent by the club of a correspondence with pen pals in Germany. As a final activity, the club had dinner at the Student Prince (a restaurant specializing in German food) during the May Day Festival.

At Christmas time, to raise money for a future trip, the German Club sold Zwetschenmannchen, little prune men intended to bring luck. Each German youth, rich or poor, buys one of these dolls during the Christmas season. Waiting for customers are Paul Sherbow, Karen Magnani, Nancy Smale, Helena Skvarnavicius, Christine Szczepanek, and Michele Schwartz.

To celebrate the joyous holiday of Hanukkah, the Hebrew Club has held its own Hanukkah party where the members sang songs, played games, and had refreshments. Marilyn Freedman (seated) demonstrates to president Barry Axler and Lynn Petluck (also seated) how the exciting game of dreidel is played. Similar to the American game of put and take, the dreidel spins and one Hebrew letter appears. Hebrew Club members June Solomon, Norman Cohn, Roberta Allen, Georgia Collins and David Bernstein anxiously await the outcome of the spin. Also on the table is the menorah, the lights of the festival, symbolizing the eight days of the holiday.

Adviser: Dr. Philip Miller

Time and place of meeting: Every third week in room 327.

Norman Cohn and Arline Horowitz, returning from their summer vacation in Israel, began the Hebrew Club's program by showing slides of the states they visited. At a later meeting the two travelers lectured on life in a kibbutz, a true communal settlement found in Israel. Continuing the study of life in the Israeli state, the club members saw two movies, the first telling how people were able to live around the region of the Dead Sea, and a second film concerning archaeology in the Negev Desert.

To acquaint the members with the culture and customs of ancient Israel, the club learned much about three Jewish holidays. In honor of Tu Bishvat, the festival of trees, the club sent money to Israel for the planting of a tree. At Hanukkah time the club held its annual party where the members had a wonderful time learning Hebrew songs of the festival, playing games such as the dreidel, and having refreshments. Arline Horowitz gave a better understanding of Hanukkah by summarizing its meaning. She related the ancient story of the Maccabean struggle for freedom and then explained the significance of the festival today. A second party was held later in the year to celebrate the holiday of Purim. Again the club sang Hebrew songs, this time to learn about the significance of this joyous event. As a special feature of the party, each Hebrew Club member participated in a play centering around the epic tale of Queen Esther. Also highlighting this affair was the partaking of the traditional food of Purim, hamentashin, which everyone enjoyed.

Another way the Hebrew Club was able to learn about the Israeli state was to have general discussions and debates about problems in Israel. The club's adviser, Dr. Miller, started a discussion by asking the controversial question, "Does the land which is now occupied by the Arabs rightfully belong to the state of Israel?" Through these varied activities the members of the Hebrew Club have learned how the people of Israel have lived throughout the centuries.

If there had been a Latin Club at the time of Julius Caesar, a special trumpeter would have probably sounded his horn to call the meeting. This club made up of senatores conscripti, chosen senators, then would have proceeded to march to the forum in their togas. Enacting this possibility, trumpeter Andy Cokkinias is announcing a meeting to Roman statesman Cliff Lofgren, Mary McCabe, John Lyons, and Mary Ellen Quirk.

LATIN CLUB

Adviser: Mr. James Fleming

Time and place of meeting: Twice a month on Monday in room 223.

Officers: President Jill MacDonald
Vice-president Mary McCabe
Secretary-Treasurer Mary Ellen Quirk

To promote interest in the study of Roman culture and its influence on our modern society, the Latin Club had a variety of guest speakers and films. Concentrating on one project, though, the members were able to find a parallel between a popular fairy tale and the ancient Roman culture. At each meeting the club translated into Latin line by line the fanciful tale "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." When the entire story had been completed, each member acted a part from the tale at a special meeting comprised of interested students.

During the latter part of the year club members became interested in the dramatizations of Virgil. Thus, for a few meetings the Latin Club studied and discussed two dramatizations of the great literary figure.

Translating into Latin the tale "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," the Latin Club at each meeting forms an assembly line to come out with a fine translation. Club members Marilyn Freedman and Jill MacDonald (seated) first produce a rough translation of a piece of an act, Howard Dash (behind them) proofreads this copy, Andrea Berry and Donna Hurwitz then write it in good English, and finally Larry Cohn fits the sentences into the entire play for a proper sequence.

Time and place of meeting: Fourth Monday of each month in room 241.

Officers: President Maria Rodriguez
Vice-president Antonio Di Michele
Treasurer Joyce Frisby
Secretary Sonia Harris

El Club Granada, Classical's Spanish Club, had many activities to acquaint the club with the language and customs of Spanish speaking countries. Mr. Donnelly spoke about the arts of Mexico, Miss Boylan with slides told of her summer trip to Latin America, and Mr. Young lectured on archaeology in Central America. The club also enjoyed its annual Christmas party where Miss Hughes, a teacher at Suffield Regional High School, discussed the Christmas customs in Puerto Rico. A very interesting event was the club's trip to the art museum where Mr. Robinson spoke on Spanish art. One of the highlights this year was a panel discussion by club members who argued whether bull fighting should be legal. As a final activity, the Spanish Club held its farewell fiesta for the seniors.

At a recent meeting, Miss Boylan spoke to the Spanish Club about her Latin America trip this past summer. Bringing back souvenirs she explained the significance of each to the Spanish Club members. Officers Sonia Harris, Maria Rodriguez, Joyce Frisby, and Antonio Di Michele are shown examining hand-covered dolls which Miss Boylan brought back from Guatemala.

Time and place of meeting: Every Friday after school in 112

Starting team: Edward Macierowski, Mark Freeman, Mathew Aranow, Richard Burns, and Allan Brainerd.

In order to increase interest in the fundamentals of chess and to promote a spirit of competition, members of the Chess Club meet and learn many of the opening moves and defenses. Mr. Laude, the adviser, aids beginners in learning the game procedure and terms involved. Each week before a match, Mr. Laude challenges the players individually in order to select the five best who are to compete. This year, Classical's Chess Club played Technical High, Longmeadow High, and Chicopee High, who are also members of the Western Massachusetts Chess League. Because the club is based on a round-table type of system, the members chose to have no officers.

This year's Chess Club was made up of twelve members, most of whom were freshmen. The members met in competition for the team trophy as well as individual awards. The team trophy is awarded to the team having the most accumulated points at the end of the four matches, and cash prizes are given to the top players with the greatest amount of individual points. Despite the fact that the Chess Club is a young team now, it promises to be strong in the years to come.

and help them to learn about possible future professions.

Members of the Future Teachers Club have acquired their most valuable information through the comparison of different teaching methods. In a discussion with Mr. Emil Faubert of the Y.M.C.A. are Theresa Falcone, Susan Viens, Joanne Donovan, Mary Andros, Mary Roulind, and John Thomas. Mr. Faubert explained the school systems of Russia and how they differ from those of the United States. The Future Teachers Club has also held joint meetings with students from Technical High School.

FUTURE TEACHERS CLUB

Adviser: Miss Morris

Officers: President Mary Roulind
Vice President Theresa Falcone

Besides having talks from many of Classical's own educators, the Future Teachers Club has taken various trips to nearby schools in order to learn about the problems and responsibilities of the modern day teacher. Their trips to the University of Massachusetts and to the College of Our Lady of the Elms have acquainted these future instructors with the psychology of the profession and the manner in which the classes are conducted. As a guest speaker, Dr. Chatto, a former principal, acquainted members with methods of coping with teaching difficulties.

Because application plays an important role in nursing, the members of the Future Nurses Club often practice methods of patient care. Taking the pulse rate and temperature of Judith Clayton are Sharon Traft, Patricia LaChance, Donna Howe, Jill MacDonald, Patricia Kane, and Ann-Marie Marratta. The Future Nurses have visited medical centers and have viewed movies in order to learn the requirements and duties of the nurse and to see modern instruments in use.

Officers: President Ann-Marie Marratta
Vice President Jill MacDonald
Secretary Patricia LaChance
Treasurer Sharon Traft

The members of the Future Nurses Club have had an active and interesting year of exploring the modern methods of the medical field. Guest speakers came from nearby hospitals and medical clinics to discuss the requirements of the nurse. A group of nurses from the Burbank Hospital in Fitchburg showed these future nurses the differences between the teaching techniques at the State Teachers College in Fitchburg and the instruction given at the Burbank Hospital.

Adviser: Mr. Stanley Mulak

Time and place of meeting: Every Thursday after school in room 324.

Officers: President Peter Krause
Vice-president Dennis Murphy
Secretary Linda Gianassi
Treasurer Bruce Devens

As always, the Science Club has conducted its experiments and has presented scientific information in order to allow members to pursue their interests outside of school while gaining valuable information.

Upon the vote of its members, the Science Club has resolved to pursue one subject in depth. This subject, atomic structure, has been the focal point of their research. The program, including films and lectures by Mr. Mulak and Science Club president Peter Krause, has enlightened the club members on this involved subject. Outside research and discussion exposed the members to the basis for the development of the atomic theory. This study of the atoms has resulted in many of the interesting projects of the past year, including field trips and the building of three-dimensional models of molecules. Other projects including the development of a moon model have required a great deal of study and skill on the part of the Science Club members. The building of the model has resulted in the accurate representation of the moon in relation to earth and the heavenly bodies.

BIOLOGY CLUB

Adviser: Mr. James O'Donnell

Time and place of meeting: Twice a month in room 316.

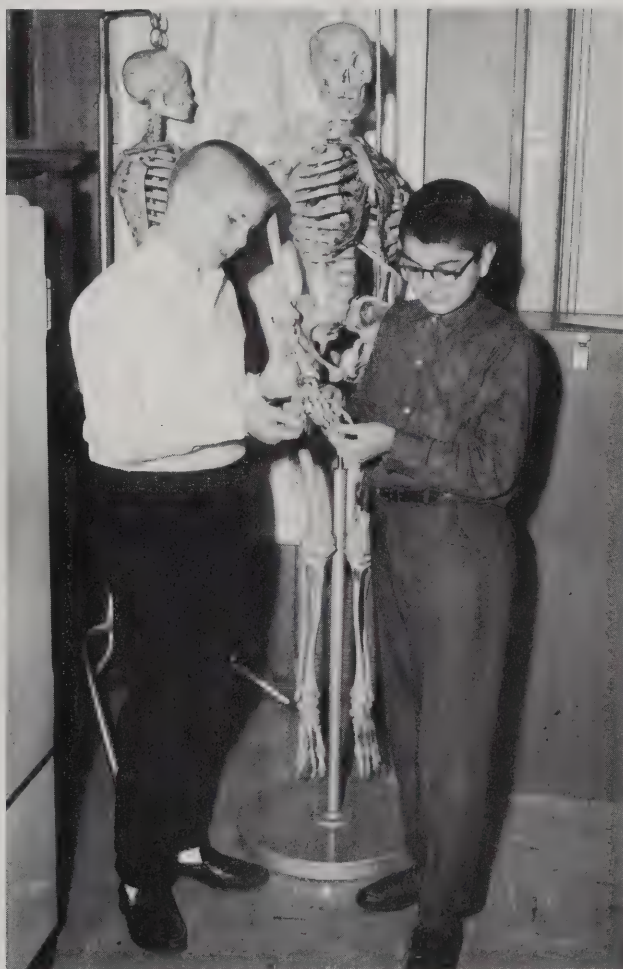

Officers: President Elaine Ciak
Vice-president Teresa Haskins
Secretary Linda Mazur
Treasurer Donna Howe

This year the Biology Club has done a great deal to increase the scientific knowledge of its members by the presentation of experimental techniques. Their study of the internal organs of animals has included the dissection of kidneys, eyes, and hearts of the mammal to better acquaint members with the functions of the human body itself. Mr. O'Donnell has led many interesting discussions about life in both the plant and animal kingdoms and guest speakers have included doctors and oceanographers discussing more deeply some of the related topics. Biology Club president Elaine Ciak has worked with Mr. O'Donnell in organizing some of the interesting projects carried on by this year's club, including a trip to the Worcester Foundation and the Harvard Museums in Boston. Individual projects have aided in demonstrating the processes of nature. For example, the club has studied and charted the progressions in embryology to help in the understanding of the formation of structure. The Biology Club has also done research on the effects of radiation in order to understand more fully the possibilities of life on other planets.

Research to discover the functions of internal organs is very important in biology. Here Biology Club members, Elaine Ciak and Ellen Sealander, are making a ventral dissection of a frog.

Michael Poling and Jonathan Bozbeckian made many interesting discoveries about skeletal arrangement of the Homo sapiens when they examined "Herman".

Gridsters come through

FOOTBALL

Despite the loss of many of its varsity starters, the Classical football team had an impressive record of 4-3. Classical began by defeating Trade and East Longmeadow, but then lost a heartbreaker to Lee. They were beaten by undefeated South Hadley, but bounced back by coming home to squeeze by Holyoke Catholic. Commerce was next in line, and Classical downed them without hesitation. The Lancers of Longmeadow were Classical's final foes. The Bulldogs just couldn't get rolling this time, and lost to their biggest rivals to end the season. We are looking forward to an even better season next year, with the return of such standouts as Harry Royle, Ed Sheehan, Bob LaGasse, Thornton Johnson, Dick Rombolletti, and Bennie Chappell.

with a winning season.

Scenes like this were frequent at Trade Field throughout the season. Quarterback John Pradella receives the ball from center and hands off to Hyland who finds an opening and breaks through.

Hyland evades tacklers and with the help of some good blocking from Benny Chappell and Dick Romboletti, obtains a substantial gain for Classical. Bob Hyland was the Bulldogs' leading ground gainer in '63.

Classical Booters

Closta, Irwin Novack, Howie Ricklas, Carl Paquette, and Larry Kelly.

Dave Donaldson gets off a pass to Wes Gardner on the march toward the goal line. Wes was on the all-city team for his second consecutive year. At the end of the season Dave was cited by Recorder as one of the team's "unsung heroes."

SOCCER

Considering that this was to have been a year for rebuilding, Classical's soccer team did pretty well. Many people thought that the loss of several vital players would mean a disappointing year for the Bulldogs, but, although the Bulldogs failed to win the City Championship, Classical was easily the runner-up. In the Western Massachusetts Tournament, Coach Vaughan's booters defeated Hopkins Academy before losing to Ludlow, who went on to win the State Championship. The only city team to defeat Classical was Tech, the City Champs. The team's success depended largely on individual performance. Classical had many outstanding individuals. The outcome of the selection of the All-City Soccer Team proved this. Representing Classical on the first team were Irwin Novack, goalie; Jeff Munsell, right back; Wes Gardner, outside right; and Larry Kelly, outside left. On the second team were Bruce Meisner and Howie Ricklas. Ron Dupuis was the recipient of an honorable mention. The combination of a strong JV squad and the return of several starters, including four all-city men, indicate a strong soccer team in 1964.

Golfers enjoy another successful season

GOLF

Bob Foerster shows his driving power as he tees off on the first hole of the new Veterans' Memorial Golf Course. Much is expected of Bob in '64.

Once again in 1963, the Bulldogs managed to produce a winning group of golfers. Tearing up the links all over Western Massachusetts, the Classical "duffers" managed an especially fine season. Golf is one sport which requires individual excellence more than a team effort. Classical had many individual standouts. Seniors Mitch Spelios, Carl Shapiro, and Geoff Neigher led a strong attack. The high points of the team, however, were the very strong juniors. Ira Kowarsky, Bob Foerster, and John Pradella are among the golfers. Even more important is the promise of a strong team for the coming season. In addition to a good showing from his junior varsity, Coach Jermakian is looking forward to the return of juniors Kowarsky, Hasty, Foerster, and Pradella.

During the February vacation of 1963, eight members of the varsity crew team journeyed south to Jacksonville, Florida for a week of rowing, relaxation, and beachcombing. Staying at a motel at Jacksonville Beach, the team escaped the freezing 20 degree below winter temperatures and enjoyed the 80 degrees temperatures of the Florida sunshine.

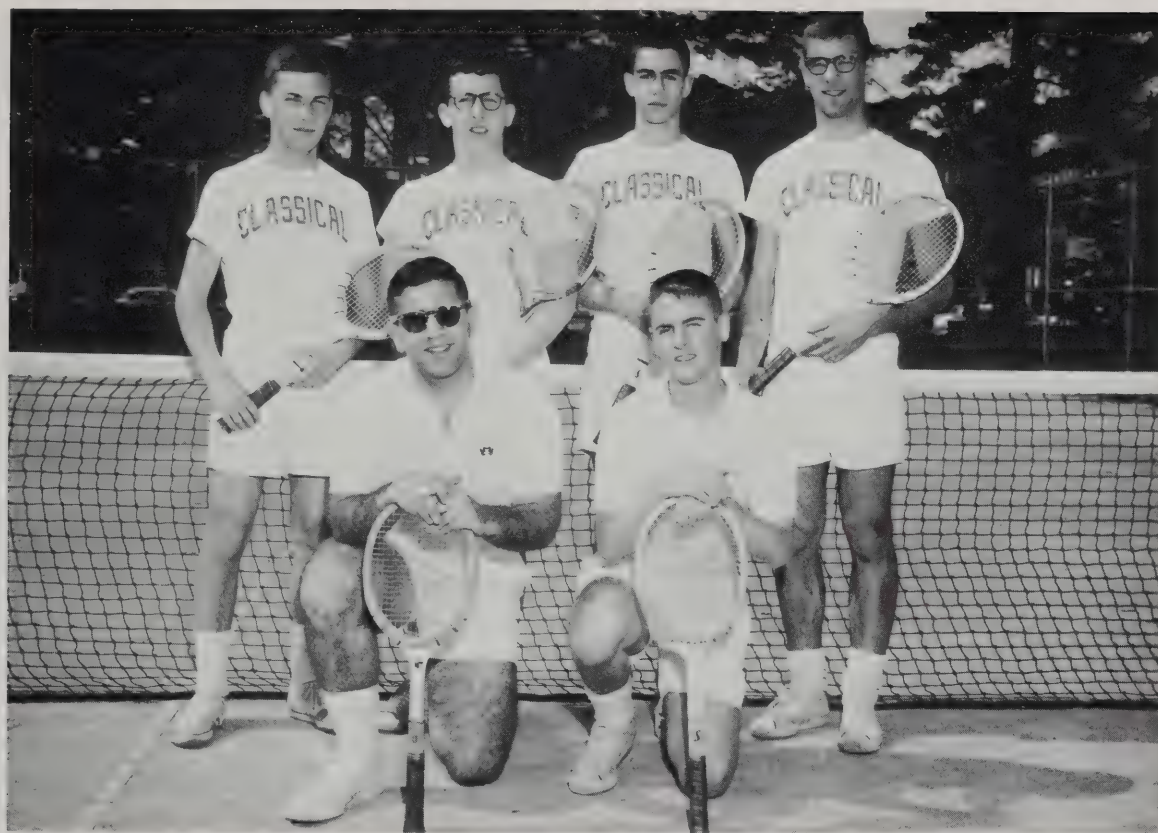

Classical's rowers opened the season by losing to the strong teams of Andover and Tabor Academy. These teams, employing the strenuous German stroke, raced in England against some of the best crews in the world and certainly showed their superiority in beating a young Classical crew. Showing strong determination, teamwork, and steady improvement, Classical placed third in the Worcester Regatta and then lost an extremely close battle to Poughkeepsie High. On a hot, Saturday afternoon on the Connecticut River, the Classical Crew was behind by two and one-half lengths at the three-quarter mile mark and was having keel trouble. With a tremendous sprint, the Classical oarsmen caught the Poughkeepsie Crew just under the North End Bridge but was ruled the loser by approximately one foot.

Shrewsbury High finished in front of Classical at the Worcester Regatta but the order was reversed on the Connecticut as Classical won a three-length victory. St. John's of Worcester had finished behind Classical by three-quarters of a length at the Worcester Regatta but was swamped by a revived Classical Crew by seven lengths on the Connecticut River. The Tech Junior Varsity, also rowing in this race, finished two lengths behind St. John's.

Much credit for the team's improvement goes to the coach, Otto Wulff, and with a better shell and six varsity oarsmen returning, Classical can look forward to a profitable season of rowing.

Classical courtmen "serve" their school

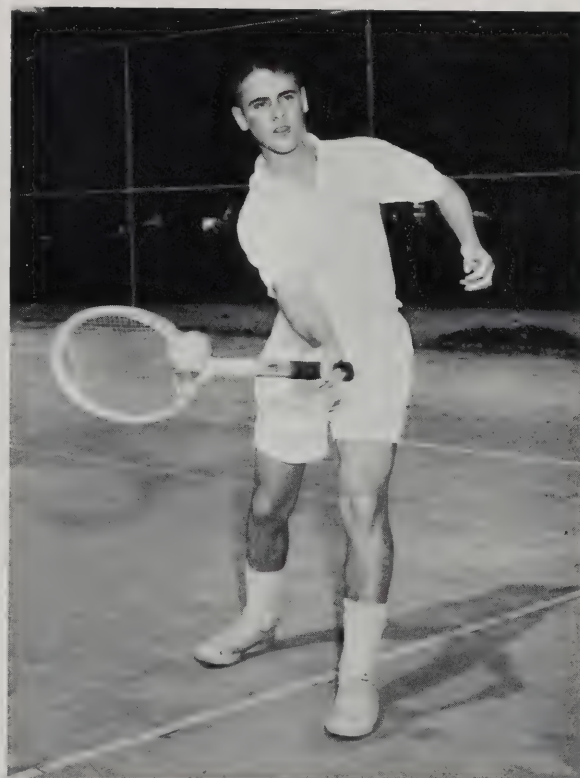

Members of the 1963 Classical Tennis Team are: (standing) Eugene Fantl, Barry Pilver, Butch Cohen, and Mark Halperin; (kneeling) Andrew Fink and Clarence Bennett.

TENNIS

Classical's tennis team has always been victorious in the city circuit, but the 1963 team ran into a little trouble. They split with Cathedral, one match apiece, split with Longmeadow, one apiece, and beat Technical twice. With the loss of seniors, Mark Halperin, number one man on the team this year, Andy Fink, and Butch Cohen; Clarence Bennett, number two man in '63, and the new team are going to have their work cut out for them in '64.

Clarence Bennett, number two on the '63 squad, shows his opponents no mercy. Classical will be depending greatly on Clarence to lead the team to victory in '64.

Classical Puckmen

HOCKEY

The Classical Hockey Team, with Coach Ralph Spolzino calling the plays, literally swept through the Wright Division during its 1963-64 campaign, to earn undisputed first place and a chance to show its might in the Berry Division next year. The Bulldogs were beaten only twice, 2 to 1 by Palmer and 1 to 0 by Trade, in regular season contests that could have gone either way. Despite these two heartbreakers, Classical put down every other team to take the ice against them, finishing the season with a 13-2 record and an amazing total of 100 goals scored. The highlights of the season were Classical's three games against Trade and the Western Mass. Tournament. All three games against Trade were hard-hitting and fast-skating, and Classical came out on top in the first two, but lost the third in a real thriller. Because Classical took first place in the Wright Division, they automatically earned a berth in the Western Mass. Tournament. The Bulldogs won their first game over a strong Westfield team of the Berry Division, 1 to 0, but lost any further tournament hopes in their second game. Tech won that one, 7 to 1. John McCarthy, captain and top Bulldog defenseman, Peter Montori, Tim Meany, Charles Houghton, and Danny Morgeson, all seniors, will be leaving, but Bob Findlater, high scorer in the league for a second time, Paul Hamel, number two man on the list, Jeff Munsell, Ed Sheehan, and netminders Pete Siciliano and Bob Peck (photo at left), who were all standouts on this year's squad, will be returning next year. Classical is looking forward to another great season in 1964-65.

Mermen take the City Championship

SWIMMING

Considered by Coach Otto Wulff as one of Classical High School's greatest swimming teams, the mermen, after an opening loss to Minechaug Regional High School by a mere three points, pushed their way past several formidable opponents and then upset a powerful Holyoke team to share the Pioneer Valley League title. With a strong team effort, Classical also retained their city crown by upending a potentially strong Tech club. In the Western Massachusetts Swimming Tournament, the 'Dogs once again used their depth to gain a runner-up position.

With a record marred by only one defeat, the mermen were paced by the record-setting junior Bill Bridgman, breast-stroker Rick Campbell, back-stroke specialist Phil Fitzgerald, and Bob Rappaport. Classical's achievements were also sparked by the clutch performance of both relay teams who shattered several long-standing records. Although many outstanding seniors are graduating, Coach Wulff feels that his juniors and freshmen still have the potential to finish on top next year.

While marksmen "set their sights high."

RIFLE

One of the newer varsity sports at Classical, the rifle team blasted its way to another successful season. Although somewhat overshadowed in city competition by powerful Technical, the Bulldogs completed their best season in their short history. While winning its fair share of regular season matches, the Classical team also fared quite well in the three-way matches, innovations in competitive shooting. In the various matches, it was not unusual for Classical to have a team score of 460, or even 480, out of a possible 500. According to varsity Coach Wessman, "A few years ago, we wouldn't have dreamed of scores like these." Four outstanding shooters, Kent Servis, Bill Neigher, Mike Solin, and Ray Halvatgis, are juniors, and will therefore be shooting next year. As a result, Mr. Wessman and JV Coach Fleming have good reason to hope for a successful year in 1965.

Bowlers set new records

BOWLING

This year's bowling team fared quite well in the local league. During the season, which is divided into two rounds, the team established records for a high single string and a high team total. In both the first and second halves of the season the Bulldog bowlers managed second-place finishes. These two fine showings were due largely to the efforts of the team members. All the varsity bowlers had very creditable averages for the year. The JV team made a remarkable showing with a 56-4 record for the year. Consequently, Coach Jermakian has his eyes on a city championship next year.

WRESTLING

The 1964 Varsity Wrestling Team, with a poor turnout and only two seniors on the squad, showed some improvement during their hard campaign, even though the scores would not indicate this. Technical, Commerce, and Cathedral displayed strong teams composed almost entirely of veterans and just couldn't be beaten.

Captain Douglas Hinkley was injured while performing in one meet and never quite got back to his early season form. The other senior is co-captain Mark Berezin.

Tommie Owens, a tenth grader, won four of his six matches and qualified for the Quarter Finals of the City Tournament. Coach Gallant sees great possibilities in Tommie and we are all looking forward to a more impressive record next year.

BASKETBALL

After last year's starting five graduated and Coach Vaughan left his position, Bulldog fans were depressed with the fact that a poor season was inevitable. New Coach Phil Hart Sr., though, had other ideas as he drilled his center Phil Hart Jr., who had some experience last year, his two forwards Steve Johnson and Mike Arpaio and guards Butch Moreland and Bob Rutherford. Little did he realize these five plus Mike Geary, who later gained a starting position, would beat some of the finest teams around.

Because the Bulldogs faced some of the strongest teams in the history of the city league, they slipped to fourth place. Gaining experience from their first two games, Classical managed its first win as they trounced Trade 67-41. Loosing to powerful city-champs Cathedral after a brilliant comeback, Coach Hart's hoopsters wanted an impressive win—and they got it. Commerce, being highly favored, came to the Field House to slaughter the 'Dogs in the first game of the second round. That night as Classical shooters became red hot, as Mike Geary slowed up the Red Raider's fabulous Henry Payne, and as Hart and Johnson blocked out the Commerce rebounders, Classical pulled the upset, 69-68. After another slim loss to Cathedral, Classical showed they could get back on the winning side with an overwhelming win over Trade 66-31.

On the independent slate, Classical had some impressive wins and only three setbacks. Bowing to Chicopee Comp in overtime 67-63 after a twenty-point comeback, Classical romped in the next game 62-42. A loss to tourney-bound Lee was avenged in a later double overtime win 75-74 and early season-winner Stafford too, was defeated.

Since Phil Hart is the only member of the starting five to graduate, Coach Hart will demand a championship next year. His two guards Moreland and Rutherford are rated as the best back-court combination for next year. Mike Geary has a deadly set shot and Johnson can rebound with the best. Coach Mack's junior varsity team, which didn't have too successful a season, had some standouts who will be a great help: accurate shooter Mike Arslin and guard Maurice Nichols. Classical can't loose next year!

Star-shooter Mike Geary lets go his patented one-hander as Steve Johnson (32) and Phil Hart Jr. (22) await the results.

seniors in the intramural tournament,

Bruce Friedenber and Bruce Gavin team up to block an attempted shot by Jack Lubinkowski.

The enthusiasm for basketball extended from the Field House floor to Classical High's own gym. This winter, a round-robin tournament was held under the careful supervision of Mr. Vaughan. The participants were the nine senior homerooms. The games were held first period on Wednesday and fourth period on Friday. Under the competent officiating by varsity team members, the tournament was a complete success.

Until the last two weeks of scheduled play, three teams—119, 204, and 224 were undefeated. Homeroom 119 with a balanced attack edged 204 by a score of 26-24 in what proved to be the key game of the season. Next, 119 had to face 204 for the championship. Again with a strong team effort 119 triumphed with a decisive 26-14 win. Members of the championship team were Ed Abar, Bill Andros, Thad Boduch, Sam Blank, Gary Bushey, and Rick Campbell.

As the season progressed, fierce rivalries were formed such as the one between Blue and White and Recorder homerooms.

and the faculty in a worthy cause.

Giving vocal support and everything else to the faculty squad are its three cheerleaders, Mrs. Denison, Miss King, and Mrs. Desrochers.

While Ronnie Tucker is ready for a pass, a determined Dr. Boyle, being careful not to foul hoopster Barry Izenstein, tries to slap the ball from his hands.

FACULTY-STUDENT BENEFIT

When asked how the faculty won, Mrs. Denison, Mrs. Desrochers, Mr. Gallant, Mr. Bresnahan, Mr. Szetela, Dr. Boyle, Mr. Pare, and Mr. Donnelly replied, "We just tired 'em out."

On February 28, Student Government held a benefit basketball game to raise money for the Barbara Tuber Fund. Before a capacity crowd, the organization raised a sizeable amount to help the Classical High School student who had been in a near-fatal accident the preceding year.

The Herculean giants of our faculty met Classical High students in a regulation game with only slight changes in the rules. Inspired by three peppy cheerleaders, they won a thriller by a mere basket. Student hoopsters, having vocal support from Classical's alternate cheering squad, almost pulled the upset but because of the fine team effort by the faculty and the individual work of Mr. Donnelly, the task was impossible.

The G.A.A., in charge of after school sports,

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Girls' Athletic Association has been providing an opportunity for girls to have fun and develop their athletic skills since 1919. The after school activities sponsored by the G.A.A. are open to all interested girls and include field hockey, apparatus, basketball, swimming, volleyball, and tennis. After attending any ten sessions, a girl automatically becomes a member of the G.A.A.

During the school year, the members of G.A.A. have money raising projects. This year the girls sold candy bars to help pay for the Drill Team uniforms, to reimburse the Student Treasury, and to pay for their annual picnic.

The annual picnic is the event which requires much planning. While they anticipate all the fun, the association gets together and decides where the picnic will be held. Like all other activities, the plans are then submitted to the G.A.A. council for final approval. The council consists of Dawn Evans, Pat LaChance, Terry Haskins, Doreen Waltein, Barbara Hitchcock, Susan Thom, Judy Rochford and Janet Preston. Although the G.A.A. is run by and for the students most of their work could not have been done without the help of their advisers Mrs. Desrochers and Mrs. Denison.

helps the student leaders by emphasizing skills

One of a student leader's many duties is officiating at the class basketball games. Here Randi Drumm signals that Susan Kasper has two free throws while Elaine Brumer, Elaine Karamallis, and Donna Hellyer prepare to play.

STUDENT LEADERS

The student leaders, chosen for their athletic ability, leadership, and desire to become a student leader, are a necessary part of the girls' gym classes. These leaders help by officiating and scoring at the class hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball games, by demonstrating skills, and by aiding in the marking of the students. Known by their triangular student leader patch, the girls feel they have fun while improving their own skills and gaining valuable experience in working with their fellow students.

DRILL TEAM

"Precision" is the byword of the girls' Drill Team. Under the leadership of four officers (all of equal rank), Sue Bednarzyk, Penny Hollis, Pamela Kerscher, Birgitte Madsen, and Mrs. Desrochers, the faculty adviser, the team has performed a variety of original drills this year. Wearing the unique uniforms of a blue skirt, white blouse, sneakers, and plaid sash and hat, the girls have marched not only at basketball games, but in the Columbus Day Parade and the Veteran's Day Parade.

Any interested girl is eligible to try out for the team. Try outs are held in the spring and the new members are selected by the Drill Team and Mrs. Desrochers. After tryouts the members suspend practices until the fall, when they begin again a schedule of rigorous practices.

The members of the Drill Team in "C" formation are: (standing) Andano Bryan, Dawn Evans, Judy Rochford, Geraldine Peck, Roselyn Warner, Linda Darrow, Connie Rinehart, Linda Giannasi, Penny Hollis, Cathy Rioni, Terry Haskins, Pam Kerscher, Nancy Syriac, Sheryn Petersen, Elaine Ciak, and Birgitte Madsen; (kneeling) Carol Neilson and Gail Harris.

In another formation the Drill Team members are: Birgitte Madsen, Andano Bryan, Gail Johnson, Carol Neilson, Linda Giannasi, Connie Rinehart, Pamela Kerscher, Roselyn Warner, Penny Hollis, Kathy Rioni, Geraldine Peck, Nancy Syriac, Linda Darrow, Terry Haskins, Dawn Evans, Judy Rochford, Sheryn Petersen, and Elaine Ciak.

Not only the boys' teams are inspired by the cheerleaders,

Both the regulars and the alternates have paused during their busy schedule for the photograph. The eleven members are: Marcia Soja, Susan Nothacker, Anita Schaefer, Doria Martinelli, Randi Drumm, Hedy Lissberger, Bonnie Burrell, Paula Strange, Cathy Dunn, Mary Ellen Quigley and, kneeling, Captain Karen Augur.

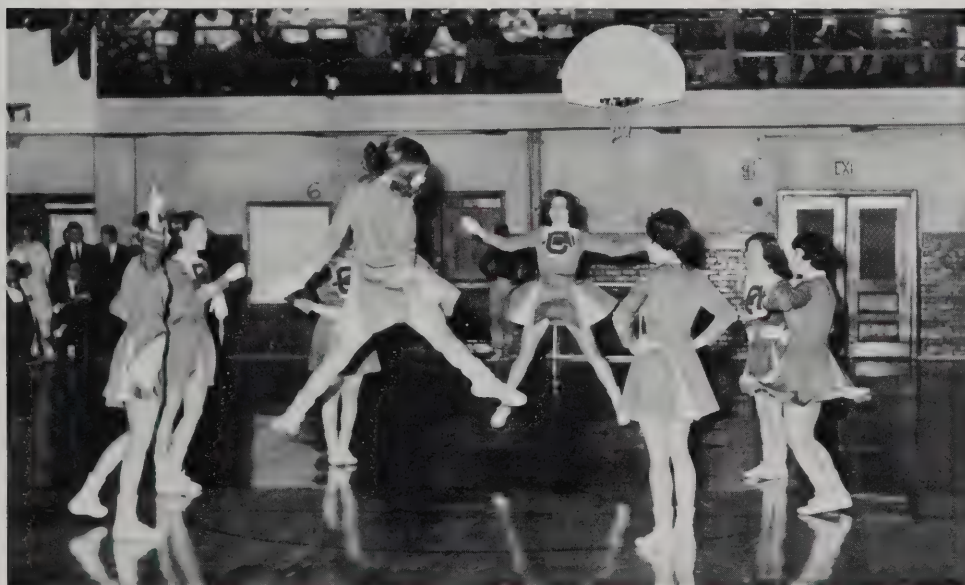

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders of '64 under the guidance of their captain Karen Augur and co-captain Mary Ellen Quigley have created some original skits and cheers for pep-rallies. Their enthusiasm and school spirit has been a constant aid to all our teams and has also changed many students into cheering spectators.

The eight juniors and seniors, Karen Augur, Bonnie Burrell, Cathy Dunn, Susan Nothacker, Mary Ellen Quigley, Anita Schaefer, Marcia Soja, and Paula Strange who were the regulars were helped by the three alternates—Randi Drumm, Doria Martinelli, and Hedy Lissberger.

In the spring the senior cheerleaders and members of the faculty make the difficult selection of new squad members. Interested freshman and junior girls attend a few practices, then two eliminations are held followed by the semi-finals and finals. Immediately the new squad must begin endless practices to be ready for next year.

At all games with smiling faces, the cheerleaders promote school spirit while they lead the boys to victory. At a recent basketball game Mary Ellen Quigley, Cathy Dunn, Paula Strange, Bonnie Burrell, Marcia Soja, Susan Nothacker, Karen Augur and Anita Schaefer are in the middle of a favorite cheer.

but also the girls' track participants.

At this year's Field Day, star broad jumper Burnett shows how easy it is to excel in this event. Recording a distance of 16'-9" in the running broad jump, she broke the city record.

TRACK

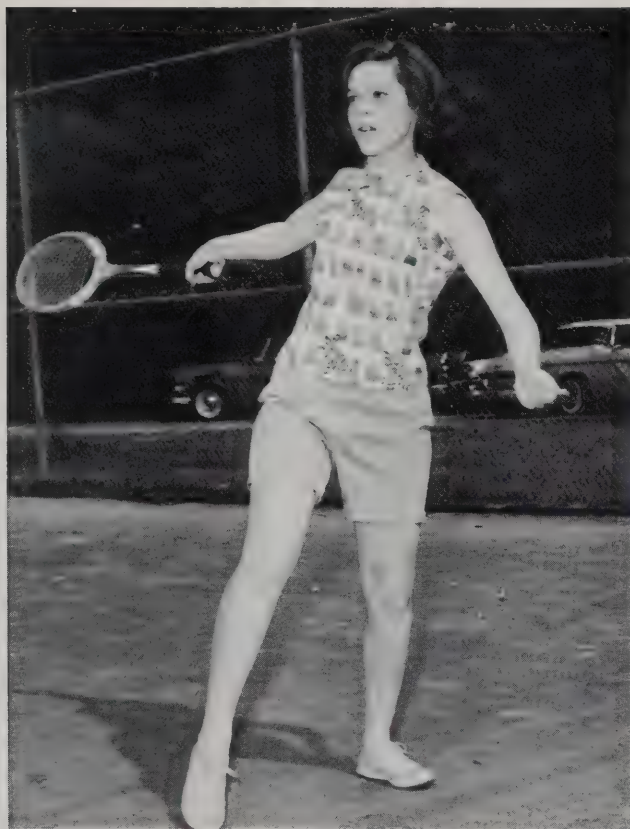

Andano Bryan jumps for distance in a standing broad jump event.

As Connie Young catches her breath, Janet Preston runs as swiftly as possible to reach the finish line first in the shuttle relay.

After school activities include tennis,

Showing how to return a serve, Terry Pevzner whallops the ball to her opponent.

TRACK

The track season began on May 22, 1963. There was a great turnout of girls this year for this activity. The events which have the most emphasis placed upon them are: 75 yard dash, 100 yard dash, standing broad jump, running broad jump, softball throw and shuttle relay. These are the events which Classical enters in the annual Senior High Track and Field Meet.

Among all the contestants from all the Springfield public high schools, a Classical girl, Terry Burnett, broke the city record in the running broad jump event with a 16' 9" jump. The girls take a running start and when they reach the take-off board they spring and land in a saw dust pit. Terry is shown (on the page opposite) on her way to her record breaking jump.

Another record which was broken this year by Classical in girls' sports was that of the all city high in standing broad jump. Adrienne Cobb broke this record with a jump of 8' 7" which had been previously held by her sister, Ann Cobb a graduate of Classical High School.

Dawn Evans slams the serve to her opponent so she will gain the advantage.

TENNIS

Tennis for the 1963 season started May 6, 1963. The girls who were interested in playing or wanted to learn how to play met after school at the Forest Park tennis courts. After many weeks of hard practice a team was chosen to play in a match with MacDuffie's School for Girls. This team consisted of Terry Pevzner and Sue Pevzner who played singles and Ellen Wolpert and Dawn Evans who played the doubles.

Although it brought great disappointment to the team when they lost to MacDuffie's the girls with higher hopes for the following week met Commerce and defeated them in several straight sets.

The season was very rewarding to many girls at Classical. Many girls learned to play a new and invigorating sport they had always hoped to play but never found time to participate in before. Some of the girls came to this after-school activity to improve their strokes and many of these show great promise for the future. These girls wait with great anticipation for the coming year.

bowling, which is gaining popularity,

BOWLING

This year the Classical girls combined forces with Commerce and Technical in their bowling activities. The season opened on October 3 and ended in December. Like so many other activities, the bowlers emphasized skills and not competitive matches.

Like last year, the Shine Ten Pin Bowl offered their reasonable prices and free instruction. Those girls who did not know how to bowl, or who wanted to improve their game, were taught the proper approach to the alley, the correct delivery of the ball, and the art of scorekeeping.

Near the end of the season, some of Classical's high scorers were chosen to play those of Commerce and Tech. As a result, we placed third. Some of the girls with particularly high averages include Susan Dodge, Dawn Evans, Barbara Hitchcock, Cheryl Knowles and Judy Rochford.

Although the bowling team has been advised that good form and high scores work together, a few members persist in creating their own form. Above, Judy Rochford disproves this theory by getting a strike, while in the background Diana Perry tries the "good form" method.

At the same Classical-Commerce game Pat LaChance referees a jump-ball between Donna Sanderson and Janis Harmon.

BASKETBALL

The main objectives of the basketball team were to improve the girls' skill, learn sportsmanship, and have a good time. On December 16, the basketball season opened. Two days a week were set aside for practice and the fun began. At each practice, teams were picked and Classical girls gained valuable experience by playing against their schoolmates.

Finally two squads were chosen in preparation to play-offs with Commerce and Technical. The members of the first squad were Dell Mullens, Janis Harmon, Dawn Evans, Melinda Smutek, Barbara Hitchcock, Judy Rochford, Janet Preston, Linda Melconian, and Iraline Greene. The second squad consisted of Andano Bryan, Connie Gary, Sharon King, Pat Kinser, Ewina Gardner, Hollee Clement, Suzanne Thom, Terrill Burnett, and Pat Lindsey. Representing Classical, Patricia LaChance acted as an official.

The teams played two games against Commerce and one against Technical. Although Classical lost all three games, the skills were definitely improved and next year promises to be better. As one of the team members said, "We all had fun."
